

Taxation of International Sportsmen

Karolina Tetlak

Thesis
submitted to the University of Warsaw in fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Laws

Degree awarded on 25 June 2012

Volume 30
IBFD Doctoral Series

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Chapter 1: Historical Background and Legal and Organizational Framework for Earning Income from Sports	9
1.1. Historical background of earning income from participation in sports	9
1.1.1. Funding ancient sportsmen	9
1.1.2. Awards	11
1.1.3. Benefits from third parties	15
1.1.4. Sponsorship and advertising income	16
1.1.5. Employment income	17
1.2. Historical background and organizational framework of modern sporting events	17
1.2.1. Olympic Games	17
1.2.2. FIFA World Cup and UEFA tournaments	22
1.3. General legal framework for the taxation of foreign income	25
1.3.1. International aspects of income taxation	25
1.3.2. Characteristics and application of double tax treaties	28
1.3.3. The genesis of the tax treatment of sportsmen under double tax treaties	36
1.4. Conclusions	40
Chapter 2: General Rules for the Income Tax Treatment of Sportsmen under Double Tax Treaties	43
2.1. The application of double tax treaties to sportsmen	43
2.2. Personal scope of article 17 of the OECD Model	44
2.2.1. The concept of a sportsman	44
2.2.2. Teams, sports clubs and intermediaries	56
2.3. Income covered by article 17 of the OECD Model	60
2.4. Apportionment and allocation of income to article 17 of the OECD Model	67
2.5. Source of income subject to article 17 of the OECD Model	74

2.6.	Taxation of income of sportsmen in the source country and in the residence country under article 17 of the OECD Model	79
2.7.	Income qualification conflict	89
2.8.	Divergences in the UN Model, US Model and double tax treaties	93
2.9.	Conclusions	101
Chapter 3:	The Tax Treatment of Various Types of Income of International Sportsmen under Double Tax Treaties	105
3.1.	Types of income earned by sportsmen depending on financing methods	105
3.2.	Prizes and awards	108
3.3.	Bonuses from governments and sports organizations	113
3.4.	Sponsorship income	118
3.5.	Advertising income	126
3.6.	Employment income	136
3.6.1.	Contract for employment of sportsmen in the light of article 17 of the OECD Model	136
3.6.2.	Income attributable to training	141
3.6.3.	Allocation of income from employment	144
3.6.4.	Income from government employment	145
3.6.5.	Pensions, severance pay and gratuities	146
3.7.	Business income	149
3.7.1.	Contract with an independent player in the light of article 17 of the OECD Model	149
3.7.2.	Cost of preparation and training	154
3.7.3.	Income from inaction	156
3.7.4.	Change of residence	162
3.8.	Scholarships	163
3.9.	Conclusions	170
Chapter 4:	Special Tax Treatment of International Sportsmen at Selected Sports Events	173
4.1.	Taxation of sportsmen at major international sports events and the approach of sports organizations	173
4.2.	UEFA EURO 2000 in Belgium and the Netherlands	178

4.3.	UEFA EURO 2008 in Austria and Switzerland	183
4.4.	FIFA World Cup 2006 in Germany	184
4.5.	FIFA World Cup 2010 in South Africa	185
4.6.	Tax exemptions offered to international sportsmen at major sports events	188
4.7.	UEFA EURO 2004 in Portugal	191
4.8.	Winter Olympic Games 2010 in Vancouver	192
4.9.	Summer Olympic Games 2012 in London	195
4.10.	UEFA Champions League finals 2011 and 2013 in London	200
4.11.	UEFA EURO 2012 in Poland and Ukraine	203
4.12.	Reasons for departing from the general rules of taxation of sportsmen in the case of major international sports events	212
4.12.1.	Requirements of sports organizations	212
4.12.2.	Economic value and benefits of tax exemptions for sportsmen	212
4.12.3.	Sociological and political reasons for exempting sportsmen from tax	221
4.13.	The consequences of departing from the general principles of taxation of sportsmen in the case of major international sports events	226
4.13.1.	Tax discrimination within the group of sportsmen	226
4.13.1.1.	Diversification of income tax treatment of sportsmen	226
4.13.1.2.	The concept of discrimination and the evaluation standards for a breach of the principle of equality	229
4.13.1.3.	Justifiability of departing from the general rules of taxation in the case of sportsmen participating in major international sports events	231
4.13.2.	Irregularities in the process of exempting sportsmen from tax on income from international sports events	235
4.14.	Conclusions	237
Chapter 5:	The Proposed Tax Treatment of International Sportsmen	245
5.1.	The need for new tax solutions for international sportsmen	245
5.2.	Income threshold	249
5.3.	Time threshold	254
5.4.	Limiting the application of article 17 of the OECD Model	257

Table of Contents

5.4.1.	Sports events sponsored from public funds	257
5.4.2.	League clause	258
5.4.3.	The exclusion of the application of article 17 to employed sportsmen	259
5.4.4.	Reduction of the rate of withholding tax	259
5.5.	Removal or reversal of article 17 of the OECD Model	260
5.6.	Modification of the provisions of national law	265
5.7.	Fixed location of international sports events	266
5.8.	Legal fiction of fixed location of international sports events	268
5.9.	Multilateral tax treaty (Olympic tax truce)	269
5.10.	Centralized system of tax collection	274
5.11.	Statutes and by-laws of sports organizations	275
5.12.	Influence of sports organizations, the OECD and sportsmen on the possibility of adopting the proposed solutions	281
5.12.1.	The role of international sports organizations	281
5.12.2.	The role of the OECD and the UN	285
5.12.3.	The role of sportsmen	288
5.13.	Conclusions	289
	Summary and conclusions	293
	References	299