

Barbara Engelking

SUCH A BEAUTIFUL
SUNNY DAY...

Jews Seeking Refuge in the Polish
Countryside, 1942-1945

Translated from the Polish by Jerzy Michalowicz

Yad Vashem ★ Jerusalem
The International Institute for Holocaust Research
The Center for Research on the Holocaust in Poland

Table of Contents

Introduction	7
Part 1 – In Hiding	25
How could one sleep when such annihilation awaited?
Uprooting	29
I know where I am going; you go ahead and save yourself
Taking Flight	43
Every day I stayed in a different village and spent each night in a different barn
Roaming Around in Search of Shelter	59
In the cellar, in the attic, in the chimney, in the field
Hiding	87
Go away, can't you see that calamity can strike me too?
Helping, Refusing to Help, and Throwing Out	109
Lady, give [us] this kerchief off your head, you are going to your death anyway
Jewish Belongings	127
I kept myself afloat by hard labor
Sources of Livelihood	133
He was a completely primitive human being
The Image of the Peasant in the Eyes of Jews
Seeking Rescue	153

Part 2 - Doomed	165
The peasants walked toward us with axes and scythes
Manhunts	167
You've lived long enough; come to the Germans
Handing Over	175
It was difficult to convince them to let us go
Two Steps Away from Death	235
The mystery of my existence will be solved
One Step Away from Death	249
We don't want anything from you except your lives!
Death	263
Conclusion	317
Bibliography	325
Index	347