

The Crises of Civilization

Exploring
Global and Planetary Histories

DIPESH | CHAKRABARTY

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Introduction: Communing with Magpies	xvii

I GLOBAL WORLDS

1 Belatedness as Possibility: The Subaltern Subject and the Problem of Repetition in World History	3
2 Can Political Economy Be Postcolonial? A Note	16
3 An Anti-colonial History of Postcolonial Thought: A Tribute to Greg Dening	28
4 From Civilization to Globalization: The 'West' as a Shifting Signifier in Indian Modernity	54
5 Friendships in the Shadow of Empire: Tagore's Reception in Chicago, c.1913–32	76
6 Romantic Archives: Literature and the Politics of Identity in Bengal	105
7 Reading Fanon: What Use Is Utopian Thought?	140

II THE PLANETARY HUMAN

8	The Climate of History: Four Theses	161
9	On Some Rifts in Contemporary Thinking on Climate Change	191
10	Postcolonial Studies and the Challenge of Climate Change	223
11	Interview: Dipesh Chakrabarty with Actuel Marx	244
12	Interview: Dipesh Chakrabarty with Katrin Klingan	255
	Select Bibliography of Published Works	269
	Index	277
	About the Author	289