

Janet L. Nelson

---

Courts, Elites, and Gendered
Power in the Early Middle Ages

---

Charlemagne and Others

 Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK

CONTENTS

Preface	vii–viii
Acknowledgements	ix
PART ONE: GENDER AND POWER
I	Gendering courts in the early medieval west Gender in the Early Medieval World: East and West, 300–900, eds L. Brubaker and J. Smith. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2004	185–197
II	The wary widow Property and Power in Early Medieval Europe, eds W. Davies and P.J. Fouracre: Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1995	82–113
III	Les femmes et l'évangélisation au IXe siècle Revue du Nord 69. Villeneuve d'Ascq, 1986	471–483
IV	The problematic in the private Social History 15. Abingdon, 1990	355–364
V	Monks, secular men and masculinity, c. 900 Masculinity in Medieval Europe, ed. D.M. Hadley. Harlow: Addison Wesley Longman Limited, 1999	121–142
VI	Peers in the early Middle Ages Law, Laity and Solidarities. Essays in Honour of Susan Reynolds, eds P. Stafford, J.L. Nelson and J. Martindale. Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2001	27–46
VII	Basilissai: power and its limits Basilissa 1. Belfast, 2004	124–135

PART TWO: CHARLEMAGNE AND OTHERS

VIII	Bad kingship in the earlier Middle Ages Haskins Society Journal 8. Woodbridge, 1999	1–26
IX	Bertrada Der Dynastiewechsel von 751 , eds M. Becher and J. Jarnut. Paderborn: Scriptorium, 2004	93–108
X	Making a difference in eighth-century politics: the daughters of Desiderius After Rome's Fall: Narrators and Sources of Early Medieval History. Essays presented to Walter Goffart , ed. A.C. Murray. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1998	171–190
XI	Was Charlemagne's court a courtly society? Court Culture in the Early Middle Ages , ed. C. Cubitt. Turnhout: Brepols Publishers, 2003	39–57
XII	Why are there so many different accounts of Charlemagne's imperial coronation? (first publication)	1–27
XIII	The voice of Charlemagne Belief and Culture in the Middle Ages. Studies Presented to Henry Mayr-Harting , eds R. Gameson and H. Leyser. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2001	76–88
XIV	Aachen as a place of power Topographies of Power in the Early Middle Ages , eds M. de Jong, F. Theuws and C. van Rhijn. Leiden: Brill, 2001, pp. 217–241	1–23
XV	Charlemagne – pater optimus ? Am Vorabend der Kaiser Krönung , eds P. Godman, J. Jarnut and P. Johanek. Stuttgart: Akademie Verlag, 2002	269–281
XVI	Charlemagne the man Charlemagne: Empire and Society , ed. J. Story. Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2005	22–37
XVII	Charlemagne: “father of Europe?” Quaestiones medii aevi novae 7. Warsaw, 2002	3–20
Index		1–10

This volume contains xii + 332 pages
--------------------------------------