

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ix

Pre-holographic fragments: Configuring the memory theatre	3
Theatres within theatres: Situating a holographic memory	6
From identity politics to a politics of counter-memory	8
Previewing the memory walk	12
1 Re-inventing the world: Calculating the con/volutional integrals of holography in Nicole Brossard's Picture Theory	16
Screen skin my mind: A holographic memory	30
Screen skin my world?	32
2 ReSurfacing: Quantum visions of shamanic transformations	43
Signs from underground	44
'Maps and dreams': Cognitive maps and inventive dreams	47
'Dwelling' in a holographic memory theatre	54
'At the last judgement we will all be trees'	59
3 Looking for livingstone in Marlene Nourbese Philip's Looking for Livingstone	63
In search of Silence	66
From Silence to livingstone	69
From Livingstone to livingstone	73

4 Typewriter as Trickster: Revisions of Beatrice Culleton's
In Search of April Raintree	79
Revising 'Beatrice Culleton'	86
Orality, literacy, holography	91
5 The wandering memory of Régine Robin's La Québécoise	96
From the materiality of language to a Marxist materiality	108
In/conclusion: A writing that is never whole	116
Holosemiosis: An open-ended spiral	119
NOTES	123
WORKS CITED	133
INDEX	141