

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Geographers as Nation Builders	2
	Nationalist Geographical Narratives	4
	A Time of Geographers in East Central Europe	8
	Multi-leveled Geographies of Yugoslavia	10
	Spatial Dimension of a Nation	12
2	The Emerging Geographical Network in Yugoslavia	23
	Institutionalization of Geography in the Yugoslav Lands	26
	Anthropogeography Between History and Ethnology	30
	Trapped Between Primitiveness and Civilization	35
	Studying Race	37
	Teaching Geography at Universities	38
3	Jovan Cvijić and the Anthropogeography of the Balkans	49
	The Center of the Network	51
	A Geomorphologist's Vision of Anthropogeography	55
	Shifting Attention from Serbian to Yugoslav Lands	59
	The War That Changed the Perspective	65
	The Proof That Yugoslavia Exists	72
4	Geographical Narration of Yugoslavia	95
	Creating Yugoslavia in Paris	97
	Croatian and Slovenian Geographical Narratives of Yugoslavia	102

Disillusionment of Cvijić	108
Early Works of Filip Lukas: The Yugoslavist Phase of a Croatian Nationalist	111
Unity Built on Fragments	116
Slovenian Perspectives on the Geography of Yugoslavia	122
A Beneficial Cohabitation: Slovenia and Yugoslavia	127
If Only Yugoslavia Could Become Like France	132
5 Geopolitical Visions of Yugoslavia	147
Improving the Geographical Literacy of the Nation	149
Ivo Pilar on the Trauma of 1918	151
Embracing the Geopolitik	156
Czechoslovak and Polish Lessons for Yugoslavia	162
The Reluctant Geopolitics of Anton Melik	169
Challenging the Geopolitical Paradigm	175
6 The Fight of Filip Lukas Against Yugoslavia	189
Echoes and Definitions	191
Denaturalizing Yugoslavia, Naturalizing Croatia	195
Toward a Right-Wing Geographical Vision of the Croatian Nation	203
Ethnology Against Geopolitics	213
Geography in the Time of Fascism	223
7 Conclusion	243
Bibliography	253
Index	279