

— Contents —

Preface to Second Edition	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
1. Introduction	1
The Dimensions and Consequences of Student Departure from Higher Education	1
The Limits of Our Understanding of Student Departure	2
The Goals and Structure of the Book	3
2. The Scope and Patterning of Student Departure from Higher Education	7
The Entry of Individuals into Higher Education	8
The Scope of Departure from Higher Education	13
Group Differences in Rates of Degree Completion	27
Concluding Observations	33
3. Roots of Individual Departure from Institutions of Higher Education	34
Sorting through Past Research on Student Departure	35
Individual Roots of Student Departure	37
Interactional Roots of Institutional Departure	45
External Communities and Withdrawal from College	62
Finances and College Persistence	65
Involvement, Learning, and Leaving	69

Individual and Institutional Variations in the Process of Student Departure	72
Concluding Observations	81
4. A Theory of Individual Departure from Institutions of Higher Education	84
Past Theories of Student Departure	84
Studies of Departure in Other School Settings	90
Stages in the Process of Departure from Institutions of Higher Education	92
Suicide and the Study of Departure from Higher Education	99
Toward a Theory of Institutional Departure from Higher Education	104
A Longitudinal Model of Departure from Institutions of Higher Education	112
Linking Learning and Leaving: The Educational Character of Student Leaving	130
A Model of Institutional Departure: Some Observations	135
5. The Dimensions of Institutional Action	138
Defining “Dropout” from Higher Education	139
The Principles of Effective Retention	145
The Principles of Effective Implementation	148
What Works in Retaining Students	153
Retention Policies for Different Students	180
Retention Policies for Different Institutions	191
Concluding Observations	201
6. Conclusions	204
Educational Communities and the Character of Institutional Commitment	204
Educational Mission and Institutional Commitment	206
The Paradox of Institutional Commitment and the Limits of Institutional Action	207
Educational Excellence, Retention, and Student Involvement in Learning	209
Leaving College and Other Forms of Departure	211
A Concluding Observation	212
Appendix A: The Assessment of Student Departure from Institutions of Higher Education	213
Appendix B: Toward a Theory of Doctoral Persistence	230
Notes	244
References	257
Index	283