

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Tables and Figures	xi
Contributors	xiii
1. Political Journalism in Western Europe: Change and Continuity	1
Rasmus Kleis Nielsen and Raymond Kuhn
Part I National Case Studies
2. What's So French About French Political Journalism?	27
Raymond Kuhn
3. Will Italian Political Journalism Ever Change?	47
Alessio Cornia
4. German Political Journalism Between Change and Stability	73
Carsten Reinemann and Philip Baugut
5. The Emergence of an Increasingly Competitive News Regime in Denmark	93
Mark Blach-Ørsten
6. The Impact of Market Forces, New Technologies, and Political PR on UK Journalism	111
Aeron Davis

Part II Cross-National Themes

7. Reporting the European Union: A Study in Journalistic Boredom	131
Olivier Baisnée
8. Do Public Service Media (Still) Matter? Evaluating the Supply, Quality, and Impact of Television News in Western Europe	151
Stephen Cushion
9. Americanisation Revisited: Political Journalism in Transition in the United States and Western Europe	171
Rasmus Kleis Nielsen
10. Changing Political News? Long-Term Trends in American, British, French, Italian, German, and Swiss Print Media Reporting	195
Andrea Umbricht and Frank Esser
11. International Journalism in Transition	219
Kevin Williams
Bibliography	237
Index	263