

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
Introduction: What is religion? What is popular culture? How are they related? TERRY RAY CLARK	I
1 Saved by satire? Learning to value popular culture's critique of sacred traditions TERRY RAY CLARK	13
2 Religion and ecology in popular culture DELL DECHANT	28
3 Religion in science fiction film and television DOUGLAS E. COWAN	41
4 Religion and cinema horror DOUGLAS E. COWAN	56
5 On the sacred power of violence in popular culture ERIC BAIN-SELBO	72
6 On the job and among the elect: religion and the salvation of Sipowicz in NYPD Blue DAN W. CLANTON, JR.	89
7 "Unlearn what you have learned" (yoda): the critical study of the myth of Star Wars JOHN C. MCDOWELL	104
8 Religion and video games: shooting aliens in cathedrals RACHEL WAGNER	118

vi	Contents
9	The Coca-Cola brand and religion JEFFREY SCHOLES	139
10	What makes music Christian? Hipsters, contemporary Christian music and secularization COURTNEY WILDER AND JEREMY REHWALDT	157
11	Lord of the Lembas: a study of what's cooking in pop culture JONATHAN SANDS WISE	172
12	Cursing then and now: Jeremiah's Scroll and the Boston Red Sox Jersey (can the Bible shed light on pop culture practices?) TERRY RAY CLARK	190
13	Postmodern prophecy: Bob Dylan and the practices of self-subversion MARK W. FLORY	203
	Index	213