

Contents

---

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction: The Return of the Epic Andrew B. R. Elliott	1
Part I Epics and Ancient History
2 Sir Ridley Scott and the Rebirth of the Historical Epic Jeffrey Richards	19
3 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire and America since the Second World War: Some Cinematic Parallels Kevin J. Hartly	36
4 'There's Nothing So Wrong with a Hollywood Script that a Bunch of Giant CGI Scorpions Can't Solve': Politics, Computer Generated Images and Camp in the Critical Reception of the Post- Gladiator Historical Epics Mark Jancovich	57
5 Popcorn and Circus: An Audience Expects Robert Stow	74
Part II Epic Aesthetics and Genre
6 Colour in the Epic Film: Alexander and Hero Robert Burgoyne	95
7 Defining the Epic: Medieval and Fantasy Epics Paul B. Sturtevant	110
8 Special Effects, Reality and the New Epic Film Andrew B. R. Elliott	129

Part III Epic Films and the Canon

9	Pass the Ammunition: A Short Etymology of 'Blockbuster'	147
	Sheldon Hall
10	Epic Stumbling Blocks	167
	Saër Maty Bâ
11	The Greatest Epic of the Twenty-First Century?	188
	Deborah Bridge
12	The Ramayana and Sita in Films and Popular Media: The Repositioning of a Globalised Version	201
	Aartee Kaul Dhar
	Notes on the Contributors	216
	Index	219