

Coastal Policing in Eighteenth-Century Britain

The Riddle of the Coast, c.1660–1822

Hannes Ziegler

THE BOYDELL PRESS

Published in association with

Contents

List of Tables	viii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xii
List of Abbreviations	xiii
Introduction	1
1. Jacobitism, Coastal Policing, and Fiscal-Military Reform (1660–1702)	17
2. Littoral Space and Coastal Mobility	53
3. Coastal Administration and the Art of Enforcement	98
4. The Social History of Coastal Policing	155
5. Reform, State-Building, and the Birth of the Coastguard (1784–1822)	204
Conclusion	250
Bibliography	263
Index	291

Tables

1	Customs Staff Numbers and Costs (England and Wales), 1685–1714	49
2	Preventive Officers on the English Establishment by County, 1702–1802	65
3	Total Customs Staff on the Irish Management, 1702–1782	77
4	Ireland: Preventive Staff relative to Customs Staff Totals by Port and Region, 1690–1782	79
5	Customs Returns and Management Charges (England and Wales), 1778–1782	152
6	Customs Receipts and Seizures Receipts (England and Wales), 1760–1784	152
7	Preventive Establishments in England and Scotland, 1821	240
8	Preventive Establishments in England, Ireland, Scotland, 1820–1844	241