

Contents

Preface	ix
Abbreviations	xi
1. Prophecy and Society in Old Testament Research	1
An Introduction to the Problem	1
Prophecy and Society in the Study of Israelite Religion	3
Prophecy and Society in Form-critical Study	10
The Implications of Prior Research	13
Prophecy and Society: A Cross-disciplinary Approach	14
2. Prophecy in Modern Societies	21
The Problem of Terminology	21
The Social Prerequisites of Intermediation	28
The Mechanisms of Intermediation	32
The Making of an Intermediary	42
The Behavioral Characteristics of Intermediaries	62
The Social Functions of Intermediation	69
Conclusions	86
3. Prophecy in the Ancient Near East	89
Prophecy in Mesopotamia	90
Prophecy in Egypt	124
Prophecy in Palestine and Syria	129
Prophecy and Society in the Ancient Near East	133

4. Prophecy in Israel: The Ephraimite Tradition	135
Characteristic Speech in the Ephraimite Tradition	135
The Beginning of the Ephraimite Tradition	146
The Deuteronomic Tradition	156
Writing Prophets in the Ephraimite Tradition	225
Conclusions	251
5. Prophecy in Israel: The Judean Traditions	253
Characteristic Speech in the Judean Traditions	254
The Beginning of the Judean Traditions: Gad and Nathan	263
Preexilic Writing Prophets in the Judean Traditions	266
Exilic and Postexilic Writing Prophets in the Judean Traditions	287
Judean Prophecy and the Chronicler	292
Conclusions	294
6. Toward a History of Prophecy in Israel	297
The Origins of Israelite Prophecy	300
The Development of the Prophetic Traditions	301
The Mixing of the Traditions	305
The Decline of Prophecy and the Rise of Apocalyptic	306
Select Bibliography	309
Index	315