Contents

Preface Josine Blok, Irad Malkin xiii
Acknowledgements Irad Malkin, Josine Blok xix
Abbreviations xxi

Introduction: Irad Malkin Greeks Drawing Lots: The Practice and the Mindset of Egalitarianism 1
1. An egalitarian mindset 1
2. From egalitarianism to democracy 4
3. What is new about this book? The previous discussion of the field of inquiry 5
4. A mindset for drawing lots 10
5. Vocabulary and mindset 11
6. Portions and fairness 13
7. Equality and the "middle" 15
8. Mixture lotteries and the egalitarian mindset 17
9. Mixture, equivalence, and interchangeability 20
10. Did Greeks draw lots to divine the will of the gods? 21
11. The lot and democracy, ancient and modern 26
12. Contents and contours: Parts I and II 29

PART I IRAD MALKIN
THE LOTTERY MINDSET:
RELIGION AND SOCIETY

1. Lotteries Divine and Human: The World of the Homeric Epics 41
Endnote 1: The debate about the distribution of spoils in the Iliad and the Odyssey 82
Endnote 2: "Getting by lot" and the verb lanchano 91
Lanchano as simply "to get"? 92
Etymology 94
Endnote 3: Group distribution and the verb dateomai in Homer, Hesiod, and the Homeric Hymns 95

2. When Does the Lot Reflect the Will of the Gods? Lots, Oracles, Divination, and the Notion of Moira 98
2.1 Lot oracles and divination 106
2.2 The god Hermes 108

2.3 The lot oracle at Delphi 113
2.4 Delphi: Themis, the Pythia, and the lot 114
2.5 Delphi: Beans used as lots 117
2.6 Delphi: Mythical history and oracular procedure 120
2.7 The oracle of Dodona 126
2.8 What is religious about lot oracles? 130
2.9 One's portion in life: Moira between the concrete and the abstract 132

3. Sacrifice and Feast: Social Values and the Distribution of Meat by Lot 138
3.1 The lot and the sacrifice: Frequency and ubiquity 138
3.2 Sacrifice, equality, and sharing in the city 139
3.3 Expressions of citizenship and belonging 141
3.4 Honorific shares 142
3.5 The lot, the victim destined for sacrifice, and the priests 144
3.6 The equal feast 146

PART II IRAD MALKIN
EQUAL AND FAIR:
INHERITANCE, COLONIZATION, AND MIXTURE

4. Partible Inheritance by Lot 151
4.1 Brothers sharing an inheritance 151
4.2 Equality versus primogeniture 153
4.3 The oikos and the kleros 155
4.4 Inheritance at home and abroad 157
4.5 Poetry and myth 161

5. Drawing Lots on the Athenian Stage 163
5.1 Inheritance, sortition, booty, captives, and military procedures 163
5.2 The lot and Aeschylus's Seven against Thebes 169

6. Founding Cities and Sharing in the Polis: Equality, Allotment, and Civic Mixture 176
6.1 Introduction 176
6.2 Section I: Things done 182
6.2.1 The setting: Greek colonization 182
6.2.2 Equal chances and equal outcomes: Kleros, inheritance, and colonization 188
6.2.3 The archaeology of kleroi in the archaic period 190
6.2.4 Egalitarianism and equality in a Greek colony 191
6.2.5 Territories and grids 192
6.2.6 Equal lots: Megara Hyblaia 195
6.2.7 Syracuse 204
6.2.8 Himera 205
6.2.9 Perimeters 207

6.2.10 Classical colonization 208
6.2.11 Athenian klerouchies 211
6.3 Section II: Things said: The lot, the "first plot," equality, and the unity of the kleros 214
6.3.1 The First Lots articulated 219
6.3.2 First Lots: Inclusion and exclusion 222
6.3.3 First Lots and equality: Was there an aristocracy among Greek colonists? 223
6.3.4 First Lots and equality: Social and economic differentiation 229
6.3.5 Things said: The kleros and the polis 232
6.3.6 Quasihistorical accounts: Sparta and its colony Thera 237
6.3.7 Quasihistorical accounts: The great migrations 242
6.3.8 Religion and the distribution of kleroi 243
6.3.9 Equal and fair: Isos kai homoios 245
6.3.10 How to found a colony? Late archaic and classical inscriptions 247
6.3.11 Saving a polis: Lottery, mixture, and social engineering 256
Endnote 1: The cui bono argument and the ancient sources 260
Endnote 2: Isomoiria 261
Endnote 3: Women and the kleros 264
Endnote 4: Archaeology and "text-based information" 266

PART III JOSINE BLOK: DRAWING LOTS IN POLIS GOVERNANCE

7. Setting the Stage 271
7.1 Introduction 271
7.1.1 The lot becomes political 271
7.1.2 Agents, time frame, and sources 276
7.2 What did poleis use the lot for? 282
7.2.1 Divination 284
7.2.2 Selection 284
7.2.3 Distribution 286
7.2.4 Procedure 291
7.2.5 Military command: procedure and distribution 295
7.3 The political background of office distribution in ancient Greece 300
7.3.1 Polis offices and social value (time) 300
7.3.2 Drawing lots for office: A special case 306
7.3.3 Political inequality and equality in the Greek poleis 309

8. Drawing Lots for Polis Office 316
8.1 Introducing the lot for office 316
8.1.1 The lot in Solon's politeia 316
8.1.2 Solon's introduction of the lot: A first anchorage 322
8.1.3 Solon's politeia: The council and the court 326

8.2 Political divergence and patterns of allotment 328
8.2.1 Allotment for polis office in oligarchies 334
8.2.2 Democratic Athens 339
8.2.2.1 Cleisthenes's constitution 339
8.2.2.2 Did Cleisthenes reintroduce allotment for political office? 342
8.2.2.3 Forerunners of Cleisthenes's innovations 350
8.2.2.4 Reforms in the mid-fifth century: Toward full allotment 353
8.2.3 Selection for office by lot elsewhere in ancient Greece 363
8.2.3.1 Drawing lots for political office outside Athens 364
8.2.4 Drawing lots for cultic offices, in Athens and beyond 373
Endnote 1: The historicity of Solon and his laws 379
Endnote 2: The Ath.Pol. and the Politics on Solon's constitution 381
Endnote 3: Ath.Pol. 8.1 on the procedure in Solon's klerosis ek prokriton 384
Endnote 4: The vocabulary of the lot in the Ancient Near East 384
Endnote 5: Solon's council of four hundred 385
Endnote 6: The diagramma for Cyrene 386
Endnote 7: The new body politic in Cleisthenes's system 388
Endnote 8: Allotment tokens from Athens 389

9. Drawing Lots for Governance: A Political Innovation 393
9.1 Drawing lots for polis governance: An evaluation 393
9.1.1 Ancient Greeks on selection for office by lot 393
9.1.2 What does selection for office by lot mean for polis governance? Some modern views 400
9.2 Conclusions: Drawing lots for polis governance in ancient Greece 404
Endnote: James W. Headlam, Election by Lot at Athens (Prince Consort dissertation 1890; London 1891) 412

PART IV CONCLUSIONS AND ENVOI

Irad Malkin Conclusions and Implications 419
1 The mindset: Antiquity, Ubiquity, and Religion 419
2 Equality and fairness 423
3 Group definition 424
4 The will of the gods 424
5 Lot oracles 425
6 Frequency, ubiquity, and sacrifice 426
7 Partible inheritance by lot 428
8 New foundations 430
9 Cleisthenes and the constitutive lottery 437
10 Our modern democracies 438

Josine Blok Envoi: Drawing Lots Today: Fair Distribution and a Stronger Democracy 441

Elena Iaffe Appendix: A Lexicographical Survey of Lottery Practices in the Archaic and Classical Periods 447
Lexicographic overview of the key terms of lottery 448
1. Instruments used in lottery practices 448
2. Words indicating a participant in a lottery 449
3. Words for the procedure of drawing lots 449
4. Verbs of lottery practices 450
   (a) Verbs related to the participants of a lottery 450
   (b) Verbs indicating the type of lottery 451
   (c) Verbs related to the procedure itself, e.g., the action "of" or "upon" the instrument of drawing lots 452
5. The semantic fields of the disputed key terms of lottery: lanchano and kleros 453
6. List of references for key lottery terms in archaic and classical Greek literature and inscriptions 459
   Key lottery terms, excluding metaphoric usages 459
   Metaphoric and idiomatic usages of lottery terms 461
   Epigraphic evidence for lottery, excluding metaphorical usages (a selection up to the end of the fourth cent.) 461

Bibliography 463
Index of Names and Places 505