

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Preface	xiii
Introduction	I
1 Poussin's Storm Landscapes and Libertinage in the Mid-Seventeenth Century	18
A Libertin Quotation to Chantelou in 1647	20
Poussin's Storm Landscapes and the Theme of Blindness	31
Libertinage and Allegory	40
Conclusion	50
2 Poussin's Landscape with Orpheus , circa 1650: The Politics of Its Reception	53
Poussin's Allegory of Orpheus: The Wedding and the City	56
Echoes of Orpheus in the Mid-Seventeenth Century	66
Orpheus in Paris	71
3 Landscape as the Site of Allegory: Poussin and Roman Studies of the Hieroglyph	79
Hieroglyphics in Mid-Seventeenth-Century Rome	84
Cassiano dal Pozzo, Hieroglyphs, and Allegory in Rome	99

Kircher, Poussin, and the Palestrina Mosaic	112
The Landscape with a Man Killed by a Snake	126
4 Poussin's Classicism, or Libertinage in Representation	136
The Modes of Music and Poussin's Self-Portraits of 1649 and 1650	140
Poussin and the Written Word	152
Textual Sequence and Pictorial Space: Painting the World as Allegory	163
Notes	183
Selected Bibliography	203
Index	211