

Table of Contents

List of Illustrations . . . . .	.xi
Acknowledgments . . . . .	.xvii
Foreword . . . . .	.xix
Prelude: The Sea in Human Consciousness . . . . .	.1
Image of the Sea in Western Culture . . . . .	.1
The Expansion of European Civilization . . . . .	.4
The Seascape as Art Form . . . . .	.7
The Italian Seacoast: Light and Vapor . . . . .	.10
The Road to Revolution and Romanticism . . . . .	.12
Chapter I: The Romantic Floodtide: Seastorms, Shipwrecks, and Revolution . . . . .	.17
Reason and the Seas of Change . . . . .	.17
The Sea in Folk Art: The Ex Voto . . . . .	.22
The Ossianic Phenomenon . . . . .	.23
The Lure of Sea Bathing . . . . .	.26
Accounts of Voyagers . . . . .	.27
The Sea in Public Consciousness . . . . .	.29
Image of the Sea in a Changing World . . . . .	.32
The Romantic Seascape . . . . .	.36
The Young Turner . . . . .	.37
Chapter II: The British Sea World: The Sea and the Romantic Imagination . . . . .	.45
Maritime England . . . . .	.45

Samuel Taylor Coleridge . . . . .	46
William Wordsworth . . . . .	48
John Keats . . . . .	52
The Cathedral of the Sea . . . . .	55
Visions of the Sea: Byron and Shelley . . . . .	59
The Seascapes of J. M. W. Turner . . . . .	73
Chapter III: The German Sea World: Oceanic Images
in Painting and Poetry . . . . .	95
Romanticism in Germany . . . . .	95
Painter of the Baltic Sea: C. D. Friedrich . . . . .	97
Poet of the North Sea: Heinrich Heine . . . . .	115
Chapter IV: The French Sea World: Oceanic Feeling
in Literature and Painting . . . . .	139
Romanticism in France . . . . .	139
Lamartine and the Sea . . . . .	143
Victor Hugo and the Sea . . . . .	152
The Painted Sea in France: Théodore Géricault . . . . .	166
Eugène Delacroix and the Sea . . . . .	170
Maritime France and the Seascape . . . . .	179
Interlude: The Decline of Romance and the Sailing Voyage . . . . .	191
Science and Materialism . . . . .	193
Sea Travel: Sail vs. Steam . . . . .	195
In Praise of the Sailing Ship . . . . .	197
The Romance of the Sailing Ship . . . . .	200
Chapter V: The Romantic Ebb Tide: Oceans of Will and Fantasy . . . . .	211
Richard Wagner—Romanticism Submerged . . . . .	211
Friedrich Nietzsche and the Oceanic Image . . . . .	222
Charles Baudelaire and the Sea . . . . .	227
Chapter VI: The Victorian Sea: Romantic Culture in the Machine Age . . . . .	251
The Victorian Compromise . . . . .	251
Alfred Tennyson—Nature, Spirit, and the Sea . . . . .	254
Matthew Arnold and the Sea of Life . . . . .	262
Dickens and His Circle . . . . .	269
Captain Marryat—Sea Novelist . . . . .	272
Clarkson Stanfield and the Victorian Seascape . . . . .	275
Walt Whitman: The Oceanic Feeling in America . . . . .	279
The Sea Passion of A. C. Swinburne . . . . .	288

---

Chapter VII: Water Worlds: Realism, Impressionism, Symbolism . . . . .	303
Trouville, Fall 1865 . . . . .	303
Courbet as Painter of the Sea . . . . .	306
J. M. Whistler and the Sea . . . . .	314
Claude Monet and Impressionism . . . . .	326
Claude Debussy and Musical Impressionism . . . . .	343
The Sea and Music in Symbolist Poetry . . . . .	353
Chapter VIII: The End of an Era: Seen from the Shore and the Ship . .	363
A New Century Begins . . . . .	363
The Sea from the Shore: Winslow Homer . . . . .	365
The Sea from the Ship: Joseph Conrad . . . . .	381
Postlude: The Sea Around Us . . . . .	399
A Bibliographical Note . . . . .	405
Index . . . . .	407