

CONTENTS

List of figures [vii]

Preface [xi]

Introduction: Marxism and art history after the fall of Communism [1]
ANDREW HEMINGWAY

PART ONE: Britain

Introduction: ANDREW HEMINGWAY [21]

- 1 Public goods or private interests? The British Institution in the early nineteenth century [27]
ANN PULLAN
- 2 The watercolour as commodity: the exhibitions of the Society of Painters in Water Colours, 1805–1812 [45]
GREG SMITH
- 3 French glitter or English nature? Representing Englishness in landscape painting, c. 1790–1820 [63]
KAY DIAN KRIZ
- 4 'Art is cheaper and goes lower in France.' The language of the Parliamentary Select Committee on the Arts and Principles of Design of 1835–1836 [84]
THOMAS GRETTON
- 5 The impossible ideal: Romantic conceptions of the Parthenon sculptures in early nineteenth-century Britain and Germany [101]
ALEX POTTS

PART TWO: France

Introduction: ANDREW HEMINGWAY [123]

- 6 'The Class of 89?' Cultural aspects of bourgeois identity in France in the aftermath of the French Revolution [130]
RICHARD WRIGLEY
- 7 Working for a bourgeois republic: Prud'hon, patronage and the distribution of wealth under the Directoire and Consulate [154]
HELEN WESTON
- 8 'Les marchands sont plus que jamais dans le temple': the revival of monumental decorative painting in France during the July Monarchy (1830–1848) [178]
ANDREW C. SHELTON

PART THREE: Germany

Introduction: WILLIAM VAUGHAN [201]

- 9 Correcting Friderich (Friedrich): nature and society in post-Napoleonic Germany [208]
WILLIAM VAUGHAN
- 10 The frescoes of Peter Cornelius in the Munich Ludwigskirche and contemporary criticism [229]
FRANK BÜTTNER
- 11 Conservatism and innovation in Moritz von Schwind [252]
WERNER BUSCH
- 12 The German experience of 1848: imaging the Vormärz, the Revolution and its aftermath [268]
FRANÇOISE FORSTER-HAHN

PART FOUR: United States

Introduction: ANDREW HEMINGWAY [289]

- 13 Long-term visions, short-term failures: art institutions in the United States, 1800–1860 [297]
ALAN WALLACH
  - 14 The American Art-Union as patron for expansionist ideology in the 1840s [314]
PATRICIA HILLS
  - 15 Landscape taste as an indicator of class identity in antebellum America [340]
ANGELA MILLER
- Index* [362]