

CONTENTS

List of figures	ix
List of tables	xvii
List of texts	xviii
Preface	xxii
PART I
Introduction	1
1 The Ancient Near East as a historical problem	3
2 The geography of the Ancient Near East	17
3 The Neolithic and Chalcolithic periods	34
PART II
The Early Bronze Age	59
4 The Urban Revolution	61
5 The rise and fall of the first urbanisation	81
6 Mesopotamia in the Early Dynastic period	93
7 The rise of Ebla	115
8 The Akkadian empire	133
9 The Third Dynasty of Ur	155

PART III
The Middle Bronze Age	171
10 The crisis of the second urbanisation	173
11 The 'Intermediate period' of Isin and Larsa	186
12 The Old Assyrian period	207
13 The Mari Age	221
14 Hammurabi of Babylon	240
15 Anatolia in the Old Hittite period	256
PART IV
The Late Bronze Age	269
16 The Late Bronze Age: technologies and ideologies	271
17 The rise of Mitanni	290
18 The Hittite empire	303
19 Syria and the Levant in the Late Bronze Age	325
20 The Middle Assyrian kingdom	347
21 Kassite Babylonia	364
PART V
The Early Iron Age	379
22 Crisis and reorganisation	381
23 Israel	401
24 The Phoenicians	420
25 The Arameans in Syria and Mesopotamia	434
26 The Neo-Hittite states	448
27 Assyria, Babylonia and Elam in the twelfth to ninth centuries BC	458

PART VI
Empires and Unification	473
28 The rise of the Neo-Assyrian empire	475
29 The structure of the Neo-Assyrian empire	497
30 The periphery of the Neo-Assyrian empire	518
31 The fall of the empire and the rise of the Chaldeans	537
32 The Medes and the rise of the Persians	554
33 Conclusion	571
Annotated bibliography	580
Index	600