

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
1 Introduction	1
G V C Naidu and Kazuhiko Togo
I East Asia: Geopolitical and Historical Context
2 In the Crossfire: Vietnam and Great Powers in the Emerging East Asian Security Architecture	13
Pham Quang Minh
3 The Paradox of Economic Integration and Territorial Rivalry in the South China Sea	27
Liu Ming
4 Managing Wider National Identity Gaps in East Asia Without Idealism	44
Gilbert Rozman
5 Beyond Power, Interests, and Identity: In Search of “Asian Thinking” to Build Trust in East Asia	58
Kazuhiko Togo

II Maritime Security: Crisis Management and Acceptable Solution

6	The Maritime Security Environment in East Asia: The Need for Strengthening Maritime Regimes, Greater Cooperation, and Dialogues	74
	Tran Viet Thai and G V C Naidu
7	Three Complementary, Simultaneous Approaches to Maritime Security in the East China Sea: International Law, Crisis Management, and Dialogue	87
	Seigo Iwamoto and Kazuhiko Togo
8	Toward an Acceptable Solution to the East Sea Dispute	103
	Tran Van Doan
<h3>III Interdependence: Effect and Limitation</h3>
9	Can Economic Interdependence and Cooperation Mitigate Security Concerns in East Asia?	115
	G V C Naidu
10	Antagonism Despite Interdependency: Whither China–Japan Relations?	132
	Lam Peng Er
11	Conclusion	147
	G V C Naidu and Kazuhiko Togo
	Index	152