

Contents

Foreword Eliot Deutsch xi

Acknowledgments xiii

Feminist Comparative Philosophy: Performing Philosophy Differently
Ashby Butnor and Jennifer McWeeny 1

PART ONE Gender and Potentiality

CHAPTER ONE Kamma, No-Self, and Social Construction:
The Middle Way Between Determinism and Free Will Hsiao-Lan Hu 37

CHAPTER TWO On the Transformative Potential of the “Dark Female Animal” in Daodejing
Kyoo Lee 57

CHAPTER THREE Confucian Family-State and Women:
A Proposal for Confucian Feminism
Ranjoo Seodu Herr 78

PART TWO Raising Consciousness

CHAPTER FOUR Mindfulness, Anātman, and the Possibility of a Feminist Self-consciousness

Keya Maitra 101

CHAPTER FIVE Liberating Anger, Embodying Knowledge:
A Comparative Study of María Lugones and Zen Master Hakuin

Jennifer McWeeny 123

PART THREE Places of Knowing

CHAPTER SIX What Would Zhuangzi Say to Harding?
A Daoist Critique of Feminist Standpoint Epistemology

Xinyan Jiang 147

CHAPTER SEVEN “Epistemic Multiculturalism” and Objectivity:
Rethinking Vandana Shiva’s Ecospirituality

Vrinda Dalmiya 167

PART FOUR Cultivating Ethical Selves

CHAPTER EIGHT Confucian Care: A Hybrid Feminist Ethics

Li-Hsiang Lisa Rosenlee 187

CHAPTER NINE The Embodied Ethical Self:
A Japanese and Feminist Account of Nondual Subjectivity

Erin McCarthy 203

CHAPTER TEN Dōgen, Feminism, and the
Embodied Practice of Care

Ashby Butnor 223

PART FIVE Transforming Discourse

CHAPTER ELEVEN De-liberating Traditions:
The Female Bodies of Sati and Slavery

Namita Goswami 247

Philosophy Uprising: The Feminist Afterword
Chela Sandoval 271

Feminist Comparative Philosophy and Associated Methodologies:
A Bibliography 279

Contributors 301

Index 305