

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	vi
Notes on the Contributors	vii
1 'It's What Made Britain Great': Reflections on British Foreign Policy, from Malplaquet to Maastricht T.G. Otte	1
2 Pitt the Elder and the Foundation of an Imperial Foreign Policy Jeremy Black	35
3 Castlereagh, 1812–22 C.J. Bartlett	52
4 Palmerston: 'Artful Old Dodger' or 'Babe of Grace'? John Charmley	75
5 'Floating Downstream'?: Lord Salisbury and British Foreign Policy, 1878–1902 T.G. Otte	98
6 'Control the Whirlwind': Sir Edward Grey as Foreign Secretary, 1906–16 Keith Neilson	140
7 Austen Chamberlain Richard S. Grayson	150
8 'Rat in Power': Neville Chamberlain and the Creation of British Foreign Policy, 1931–39 Greg Kennedy	173
9 Ernest Bevin: Reluctant Cold Warrior Sean Greenwood	190
10 Anthony Eden David Dutton	219
11 'A Rear Guard Action': Harold Macmillan and the Making of British Foreign Policy, 1957–63 Nigel J. Ashton	238
12 British Foreign Policy under Margaret Thatcher Paul Sharp	261
Index	286