

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

- 1 Puerto Ricans, Race, and Ethnicity in Postwar New York City 21
- 2 We Were Walking on Egg Shells: Puerto Rican and Black Workers' Political Dissent in the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union 61
- 3 From Social Reform to Political Organizing: Building a New Consciousness of Resistance 95
- 4 If You Have a Black Numero Uno, Let's Have a Puerto Rican Numero Dos: Building Puerto Rican and Black Political Power through the War on Poverty 131
- 5 From Racial Integration to Community Control: The Struggle for Quality Education 165
- 6 The Breaking of a Coalition: Institutionalizing Power and the Remaking of a Hispanic Identity 211

Epilogue 249

Notes 257

Bibliography 285

Index 309