

Contents

Introduction	1
Literary Portrayals of National Socialism in Post-Unification German Literature Bill Niven	11
Views of History, Views of the State: Günter Grass and the German Past Julian Preece	29
‘Deutsche Geschichte darf auch einmal gutgehen’: Martin Walser, Auschwitz, and the ‘German Question’ from Ehen in Philippsburg to Ein springender Brunnen Stuart Taberner	45
‘Das korsakowsche Syndrom’: Remembrance and Responsibility in W.G. Sebald Arthur Williams	65
‘Die Ungnade der späten Geburt?’ The Theme of National Socialism in Recent Novels by Bernhard Schlink and Klaus Modick Stuart Parkes	87
Elisabeth Reichart’s Nachtmär – The Enduring Nightmare of Austria in the 1990s Juliet Wigmore	103
Soundscapes of the Third Reich Marcel Beyer’s Flughunde Helmut Schmitz	119

Of Death, Kitsch and Melancholia: Aimée und Jaguar: 'Eine Liebesgeschichte, Berlin 1943' or ' Eine Liebe größer als der Tod '? Anna M. Parkinson	143
Journey to an Unknown Destination: Gudrun Pausewang's Transgressive Teenage Novel Reise im August Susan Tebbutt	165
Notes on Contributors	183