

Contents

Walburga von Raffler-Engel: Introduction	1
PART I: RESEARCH FOUNDATIONS
Albert E. Schefflen: Systems in human communication	7
Adam Kendon: Features of the structural analysis of human communicational behavior	29
Irenäus Eibl-Eibesfeldt: Strategies of social interaction	45
Starkey Duncan, Jr.: Describing face-to-face interaction	67
Robert N. St. Clair: Social distance: expressions of power, solidarity and status	81
Paul Ekman: Three classes of nonverbal behavior	89
Michael Eric Bennett and Elizabeth Nall: Transactions that lie	103
Fernando Poyatos: Man as a socializing being: New integrative and interdisciplinary perspectives through cultural and cross-cultural studies in nonverbal communication	113
Michael T. McGuire: Metakinesic behavior – some theoretical considerations	125
PART II: THE ACQUISITION OF NONVERBAL COMMUNICATION
Walburga von Raffler-Engel: Developmental kinesics: the acquisition of conversational nonverbal behavior	133
PART III: PRACTICAL METHODOLOGY
Heather Hilton and Steven Weinstein: The methodology of kinesic analysis	161

Patrice N. French: An experimental methodology for kinesics research	173
Larry N. Reeker: Computers in kinesic research	177
Lillian Christman: The use of statistical methods	193
Harald G. Wallbott: The measurement of human expression	203
C. D. Webster, H. Westerblom J. Oxman, M. M. Konstantareas and R. Rivers: An unsuccessful attempt to reproduce the "Condon effect" using high speed photography	229

PART IV: APPLIED KINESICS

Adrian T. Bennett: Rhythmic analysis of multiple levels of communicative behavior in face-to-face interaction	237
Carroll E. Izard and Barbara S. Izard: Expression of emotions as a transcultural language in social interactions and theatrical performance	253
Akiba A. Cohen: The use of hand illustrators in direction-giving situations	265
Janis Buckner: Seen and not heard: a study in storytelling illustrators	275
Brenda Hopson-Hasham: The adjustment of the speaker to the hearer	281
Leo Ward and Walburga von Raffler-Engel: The impact of nonverbal behavior on foreign language teaching	287
Charles Gregory Puckett: Facial muscles in expression	305
Susan Byrn and Betsy Van Vleck: Nonverbal communication differences in group and dyadic interactions	313
Tetsuya Kunihiro: Personality-structure and communicative behavior – a comparison of Japanese and Americans	329
Bates Hoffer and Richard G. Santos: Cultural clashes in kinesics	335

Diane Angelini:
Nonverbal behaviors: communication between patient and nurse . . .	339
Lisa Manly:
Nonverbal communication of the blind	345
Perry Weisberg and Elizabeth B. Battey:
Nonverbal behavior in male-female invasion of private space . . .	351
Walburga von Raffler-Engel, Keith Newman, Robin Foster and Frank Gantz:
The relationship of nonverbal behavior to verbal behavior in the evaluation of job applicants	357
SUBJECT INDEX	375