
Brief Contents

Introduction: The Study of Economic Growth, Welfare, and Decision Making 1

Part I From Colonialism to National Independence
1492–1790 7

Chapter 1 America and the Developing World Economy 11

Chapter 2 Regional Patterns of Colonial Development 32

Chapter 3 Growth and Welfare in the Colonies 58

Chapter 4 Foundations of Economic Independence 85

Part II The Agricultural Era and Emerging Industrialism
1790–1860 107

Chapter 5 Revolutions in Transportation and Communications 109

Chapter 6 Land Policy, Agricultural Expansion, and the Political Economy of Slavery 133

Chapter 7 Critical Changes in the Financial System 158

Chapter 8 Beginnings of the Industrial Revolution in America 182

Chapter 9 Growth and Change in Domestic and Foreign Markets 206

Chapter 10 Economic Growth and Social Welfare 230

Part III The Transformation of the American Economy
1860–1914 249

Chapter 11 Continental Expansion, Agricultural Modernization, and Southern Backwardness 253

Chapter 12 Mass Production and the Advent of Big Business 275

- Chapter 13 Labor in the Industrializing Society 302
Chapter 14 Building Nationwide Railroad and Communication Networks 329
Chapter 15 The Financial System Under Stress 352
Chapter 16 National and World Markets for Mass Production 376
-

Part IV Prosperity, Depression, and World Wars
1914–1945 403

- Chapter 17 The Economic Impact of World War I 407
Chapter 18 The 1920s: A Taste of Affluence 428
Chapter 19 The Great Depression and the Expanding Role of Government 457
Chapter 20 The Planned Economy of World War II 492
-

Part V The Postindustrial Economy and the New World Order
1945–1990s 513

- Chapter 21 The Good Years, 1945–1965 517
Chapter 22 The Great Inflation, 1965–1982 537
Chapter 23 Deficits, Debts, and Defaults, 1980–1992 560

Contents

List of Maps xxiv

Introduction: The Study of Economic Growth, Welfare, and Decision Making 1
Economics and Economic History 3
The Scope of Economics 3 / The Range of Economic History 4 / Decision Making in Economic History 4
Suggested Readings 5

Part I From Colonialism to National Independence, 1492–1790 7

Chapter 1 America and the Developing World Economy 11
A Changing European Economy 12
Business and International Trade 12
Mercantilism 14
Toward a Market Economy 15
Imperial Leaders 15
Portugal 16 / Spain 18 / Holland 21 / France 24 / Toward a World Economy 25
The Economic Expansion of England 25
Foreign Trade and Overseas Expansion 26
The Essential Elements of Colonization 27
Trade—The Keystone of Colonization 27 / Migration to the Colonies 28 / Government Policy 28 / Flow of Information 28
Summary 29
Suggested Readings 30

Chapter 2 Regional Patterns of Colonial Development 32
Planting the English Colonies 33
Joint Stock Companies 33 / The Massachusetts Bay
Colony 34 / Proprietors 35
Euro-Americans 36
Indentured Servants 37

	American Indians	38
	African-Americans	39
	Plantation Capitalism	41
	The West Indies	41 / The Lower South 43 / The Upper South 45
	Merchant Capitalism	49
	The New England Colonies	49 / The Middle Colonies 50
	Toward Autonomy in Economic Decision Making	52
	Summary	53
	Suggested Readings	55
Chapter 3	Growth and Welfare in the Colonies	58
	Demographic Trends	59
	Patterns of Economic Growth	61
	Sources of Economic Growth	62
	British Mercantilism and American Economic Growth	64
	The Industrial Sector	66
	Handicraft Manufactures	66 / Mill Industries 67 / Shipbuilding and Ironworks 67 / Other Activities 68
	The Financial Sector	69
	Public Sector Responses	70 / Business and the Money Problem 72 / Adequacy of the Monetary System 72
	Wealth Distribution in Colonial America	74
	Family Enterprise and the Market	74
	Toward a Consumer Society	76
	A Consumer Revolution	77
	The Paradox of Poverty	78
	The Poor Laws	78 / Characteristics of Poverty in Colonial America 78
	Summary	80
	Suggested Readings	81
Chapter 4	Foundations of Economic Independence	85
	The Breakdown of the Imperial-Colonial Structure	86
	The Economics of War	87
	Troops and Materials	87 / Financing the War Effort 90
	Impact of the War and Independence on the Economy	92
	Economic Trends	93 / New Lines of Enterprise 94

Land Policies: Speculation and Settlement	96
Government Policies for the Disposal of the Public Domain	97 / Organizing Settlement in the West
	98
Changes in Social Structure	98
The Status of Minority Groups and Women	99
Economic Forces and the U.S. Constitution	100
Articles of Confederation	100 / The Constitutional Convention of 1787
	100 / Economic Provisions of the Constitution
	101
Summary	102
Suggested Readings	103

Part II The Agricultural Era and Emerging Industrialism, 1790–1860 107

Chapter 5	Revolutions in Transportation and Communications	109
	Transportation Costs and Economic Development	110
	Gallatin's Report on Roads and Canals	112
	The Building of Turnpikes and Other Roads	113
	The Canal Era (1817–1844)	114
	Early Canals	114 / The Erie Canal
		115 / Other Canal-Building Ventures
		115 / Three Cycles of Canal Construction
		117
	The Steamboat	118
	Western River Steamboat Expansion	119
	The Early Railroad Age (1828–1860)	120
	The Decline of Transport Costs	124
	Information and Communications	126
	Newspapers	127 / Postal Services
		128 / Common Carriers
		129 / The Telegraph
		129
	Summary	130
	Suggested Readings	131
 Chapter 6	 Land Policy, Agricultural Expansion, and the Political Economy of Slavery	 133
	U.S. Land Policies Before the Civil War	134
	Early Land Policy (1781–1802)	134 / Public Policy and the Land Market (1800–1860)
		137 / Sectional Politics and Land Economics
		140

Government Assistance to Manufacturing	196
Tariff Protection	197
Rudimentary Labor Organization	198
Forming a Labor Force: Textiles	198 / Evolution of the Industrial Labor Market
The Struggles of Organized Labor	200
Education and Human Capital	201
Antebellum Schooling Levels	202
Summary	203
Suggested Readings	204

Chapter 9	Growth and Change in Domestic and Foreign Markets	206
	Foreign Commerce	207
	Comparative Advantages of the United States	207 / Trade and Prosperity (1793–1807)
	American Merchant Shipping	210
	Exports, Imports, and the Balance of Payments	213
	Export Markets	213 / Imports and a Continuing Trade Deficit
	Foreign Investment in the United States	215
	Short- and Long-term Credit from Europe	215 / Boom-and-Bust Cycle of the 1830s and 1840s
	Domestic Commerce	217
	Growth of Internal Markets	218 / Markets and Economic Development
	Specialization in Marketing and Commercial Information	222
	The Marketing of Cotton	222 / Northern Agricultural Marketing
	Marketing Manufactured Products	224 / Merchants and Manufacturers
	Commercial Credit Reporting	226 / Bank-note Reporters
	Summary	227
	Suggested Readings	228

Chapter 10	Economic Growth and Social Welfare	230
	The Economic Transformation in Perspective	231
	Major Developments	231 / The Life of Roger Brooke Taney (1777–1864)
	The Emergence of Modern Economic Growth	235
	Regional Differences	237
	The Northeast	238 / The West
	The South	238
	Economic Welfare: Distributing the Gains from Growth	239

Agricultural Development: Abundant Land, Growing Markets, and Slave Labor 142
 Agriculture in the 1790s 143 / The Cotton Economy of the South (1793–1860) 143 / The Diversity of Southern Agriculture 146
 Slavery: Economics and Morality 147
 Northern Agricultural Development 151
 Agricultural Technology and Productivity 153
 Summary 155
 Suggested Readings 156

Chapter 7 Critical Changes in the Financial System 158

Early Federalist and Republican Financial Policies 159
 Origins of the National Debt 159 / The Bank of the United States 161 / The Dollar and Coinage 161 / A Solid Financial Underpinning for the United States 162
 The U.S. Monetary System 163
 Specie Money and Bank Money 163 / The Money Supply and Price Levels 167
 Banks and Politics 169
 Problems with the Banking System 169 / The Results of the Bank War 171 / The Safety Fund 173 / Free Banking 173 / Patterns of Private Banking 174
 Government-Sponsored Economic Activity (1790–1860) 175
 Federal Financial and Tariff Policies 175 / State and Local Government Activity 178
 Summary 179
 Suggested Readings 180

Chapter 8 Beginnings of the Industrial Revolution in America 182

Obstacles to U.S. Industrialization 183
 “Manufacturing” in the Early United States 183
 The Industrial Revolution 185
 Core Principles and Innovations 185 / The Early Cotton Textile Industry 186
 The Spread of Antebellum Manufacturing 189
 Leading American Industries 189
 Antebellum Technological Developments 193
 Borrowed Technologies 194 / Original Technologies 194 / Explaining U.S. Technological Developments 195

Public Policy Toward the Giant Corporation	288
The Sherman Antitrust Act (1890)	289 / The Great Merger
Movement (1897–1903)	290 / Big Business and the Law
291
Transition to Oligopoly	293
Managerial Enterprise	295
The Business System	296
Summary	297
Suggested Readings	299

Chapter 13	Labor in the Industrializing Society	302
	Immigration and the Size of the Labor Force	303
	Labor Mobility Within the United States	307
	Women in the Labor Force	309
	The Emergence of the Clerical Sector	312
	Changing Conditions of Employment	314
	Wages and Hours	314 / Working Conditions
	314 / Job Security	315 / Industrial Discipline and Labor Relations
	316
	The Course of Organized Labor	317
	The National Labor Union	317 / The Knights of
	Labor	318 / The American Federation of Labor
	318 / The Industrial Workers of the World	321
	Industrial Conflict and the Courts	321
	Welfare Capitalism	322
	Social Legislation	323
	Summary	325
	Suggested Readings	326

Chapter 14	Building Nationwide Railroad and Communication Networks	329
	Railway Expansion Under Corporate Organization	331
	Corporate Charters	331 / Completing the Rail
	Network	331 / Railroads: The First Big Businesses
	332
	Railroad Investment and Finance	335
	Sources of Funds	335
	Railroad Productivity and Its Sources	339
	Competition and Technological Changes	339 / Cooperation:
	Standardizing Equipment and Time	340 / Changes in Managerial
	Structures	340
	The Social Savings of Railroads	341

An Egalitarian Nation? 240 / Or a Land of Inequality? 240 / Evidence of Unequal
 Distribution 240 / Interpreting the Evidence on Distribution: The Life Cycle 242 / Income Distribution and Wage
 Levels 244 / Standard of Living 244
 Summary 245
 Suggested Readings 247

Part III The Transformation of the American Economy, 1860–1914 249

Chapter 11 Continental Expansion, Agricultural Modernization, and Southern Backwardness 253

Southern Agriculture After the Civil War 254
 Economic Reorganization of the Postbellum South 255 / Debt
 Peonage and Southern Backwardness 256

Land Policy Decisions 258
 The Homestead Act: Pitfalls of Free Land 258 / Ownership and Tenancy 259

Patterns of Westward Movement 259
 Mining Frontiers 261 / The Cattle Kingdom 262

Agricultural Productivity and Its Sources 264
 Mechanization 264 / A Case of Nonmechanization: Cotton 265

Regional Specialization in Agriculture 266

Agrarian Crises and Farmers' Welfare 267
 Grangers, Greenbacks, and Populists 267 / Agrarian Protest
 Issues 267

The Golden Age of Agriculture 271
 Summary 272
 Suggested Readings 273

Chapter 12 Mass Production and the Advent of Big Business 275

An Industrial Revolution 277
 Technology, the Market, and the Resource Base 278 / Capital
 Goods 281 / Metallurgy 281 / The Machine
 Age 283 / Power Engines 283 / Mass Production 284

Emergence of the Large Corporation 285
 Vertical Growth 286 / Horizontal Combinations 287

	Defining and Measuring Social Saving	341	/	Substitutes for Rail Transportation	342
	Railroads and the Political Economy of Regulation	342
	Discriminatory Freight Rates	342	/	State Regulation and the Munn Decision	343
			/	Federal Regulation: The ICC	343
			/	Regulation in Historical Perspective	344
	Advances in Communication	344
	Railroads and Postal Service	344	/	Telegraphy: The Western Union Company	345
			/	The Telephone	345
	Summary	349
	Suggested Readings	350
Chapter 15	The Financial System Under Stress	352
	Legacies of Civil War Finance	353
	Taxation	353	/	Borrowing	354
			/	Money Creation	357
	Money and Prices	359
	Growth of the Money Supply	359	/	Expanding Market Activity and the Demand for Money	359
			/	The Gold Standard Constraint	360
	The Economics of Resumption	360
	Deflation With and Without Monetary Contraction	361	/	Deflation with High Real Growth	362
			/	Deflation and the Gold Standard Orthodoxy	362
	Greenbackism and the Free-Silver Movement	364
	The Greenback Party	365	/	Silver Politics	365
	Banking Problems	367
	Promises and Pitfalls of National Banking	367	/	The Dual Banking System	368
			/	Banking Panics	369
	The Financial Sector and Trends in Capital Formation	370
	Role of Financial Intermediaries	370	/	Federal Budget Surpluses and Debt Retirement	372
	Summary	374
	Suggested Readings	374
Chapter 16	National and World Markets for Mass Production	376
	Marketing of Agricultural Commodities	377
	Mass Consumption and Mass Distribution	378
	The Creation of a Nationwide Marketing System	379
	Specialization and Integration in Distribution	381	/	The Independent Wholesaler	381

Mass Retailers and a Revolution in Shopping	381
The Department Store	381 / The Mail-Order Firm 383 / The Chain Store 383 / Advertising and the Consumer 384 / The Cost of Distribution 387
The United States in a Growing World Economy	387
Trends in Foreign Trade and Payments	388 / The Protective Tariff 390
Promoting American Business Abroad	394
Territorial and Economic Expansion Overseas	396
Summary	399
Suggested Readings	401

Part IV Prosperity, Depression, and World Wars, 1914–1945 403

Chapter 17	The Economic Impact of World War I	407
	The Road to World War I	408
	Mobilization of Manpower	409
	Mobilization of Economic Resources	410
	Financing the War Effort	412
	Taxation 413 / Borrowing and Credit Expansion	414
	American Industry During the War Years	416
	Agriculture During the War Years	417
	The Labor Force in Wartime	417
	Growth of Labor Unions	419
	New Developments in Finance	419
	The Structure of the Federal Reserve System	420 / Functions and Tools of the Fed 421
	The New U.S. Position in the World Economy	424
	Summary	425
	Suggested Readings	426
Chapter 18	The 1920s: A Taste of Affluence	428
	The Contours of Economic Change in the New Era	429
	Growth Industries	430
	The Automobiliation of America 430 / The Electrification of America 433 / Chemicals: Pioneering in Science-Based Industry 434 / Other Growth Sectors 434

Postwar Finance	508
International Finance and Trade	508
The Challenges of the Postwar Era	509
Summary	509
Suggested Readings	510

Part V The Postindustrial Economy and the New World Order, 1945–1990s 513

Chapter 21 The Good Years, 1945–1965 517

A Perspective on the U.S. Economy in the Twentieth Century	518
Building a Freer World-Trading Order	519
The Bretton Woods Agreements	520 / The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 521 / The European Community 521 / U.S. Trade and Balance of Payments 521
The Cold War and the Containment of Communism	522
Costs of the Cold War	523
Government Accepts Responsibility for Economic Stabilization	526
Fiscal Policies Before the 1960s	526 / Monetary Policy (1945–1960) 528 / The Triumph of Discretionary Stabilization Policies (1961–1965) 528
Major Developments in the Labor Markets After 1945	529
The Post–World War II Baby Boom	529 / The Rise of Women’s Labor Force Participation 531
Two Decades of Stable Growth	534
Summary	534
Suggested Readings	535

Chapter 22 The Great Inflation, 1965–1982 537

Dimensions of the Great Inflation	538
How the Great Inflation Began	539
Policy Decisions: Guns and Butter	539 / Increased Government Spending 539 / Effect on Taxpayers 540
The Great Society Programs	540
Medicare and Medicaid	541 / The War on Poverty 541 / Aid to Education, Transportation, Civil Rights, and Other Areas 542

Regulation: Old and New	543
Domestic Policy Reactions to the Great Inflation	544
Decline of Fiscal Policy	544 / Stagflation 544 / The Federal Reserve Changes Course, 1979 545
Inflation and Domestic Finance	546
Rise of Interest Rates	546 / Depressed Stock Market 548
International Reactions to the U.S. Inflation	548
An Overvalued Dollar	549 / Collapse of Bretton Woods System 549 / Flexible Exchange Rates and Oil Imports 549
The Slowing of Productivity Growth	549
The Rise of Services and the Decline of Manufacturing	552
The Lesson of Agriculture	552 / Manufacturing Follows the Pattern of Agriculture 554 / Productivity in Services 555
African-Americans in the Labor Market	556
Black Migrations	556 / Schooling 556 / Antidiscrimination Laws 556
Summary	557
Suggested Readings	558

Chapter 23	Deficits, Debts, and Defaults, 1980–1992	560
	Monetary Policy: Tight Money	562
	Decline of Inflation Rates	562 / Stagflation of 1989–1992 563
	Fiscal Policy: Deficits and Debt	563
	Economic Recovery Tax Act	563 / Expenditure Growth and the Defense Buildup 564 / The National Debt 565
	Effects of the U.S. Economic Policy Shifts	567
	High Real Interest Rates	567 / International Effects 568 / Parallel Domestic Financial Crises 570 / Domestic Effects 571
	The Deregulation Movement	575
	The Transportation Industries	575 / Other Industries 576
	The Decline of Organized Labor	576
	Trends in Economic Welfare	577
	Summary	578
	Suggested Readings	578

Index	581
--------------	-----