

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Preface	ix
PART I
Towards a Whole-School Language Policy	1
1 The Need for a Language Policy	3
2 The Bullock Report and the Policy	15
3 Language and Education, by Dr W. A. Gatherer	28
PART II
The Components of a Policy	65
4 The Teachers' Approach	67
An attitude to language	67
The language of school	73
Teacher talk	77
5 Pupils' Use of Language	80
The place of reading, by Colin Harrison and Keith Gardner	80
Subject reading strategies	104
The use of talk	129
Talking and learning in science, an example, by Irene Robertson	137
Writing, by Nancy Martin	145
Listening	169
Monitoring communication for learning, by Douglas Barnes	171

6	Classroom Technicalities	179
	Language terms	179
	Introducing vocabulary	180
	The phonics approach, by Anne Dubs	185
	Spelling	197
	Punctuation	203
	Study skills	208
7	School Organization	213
	Liaison between schools	213
	Testing policy	215
	Planning a screening test of reading attainment at lower secondary level, by Colin Harrison	218
	Pupil grouping	220
	Print availability	225

PART III

	Putting it into Practice	229
8	Initiating and Implementing a Policy	231
	Initiating, by Nancy Martin	231
	Implementing	250
9	Conclusion: A Language for Life	261

APPENDICES

1	Word Building: A Sample List	265
2	Example of a Working Party's Internal Questionnaire	270
3	Part of the Abbey Wood School Report and Policy	275
4	Part of Woodberry Down School Working Party Report	280
5	A Policy Document for the School-wide Reading Programme in Culverhay School	291
6	Television	300
	A Language Policy Reading List	302
	Index	305