1. Introduction	1
2. Bilingual acquisition of intonation.....	4
2.1 Description and transcription of the phonological systems of English and German intonation.....	4
2.1.1 The British tradition.....	4
2.1.2 The autosegmental-metrical (AM) approach	7
2.1.3 Compatibility of the two transcription systems	10
2.2 The linguistic functions of intonation	11
2.3 The phonetic correlates of intonation.....	12
2.3.1 The phonetic correlates of nuclei, pitch accents and intonational phrasing ...	13
2.3.2 Pitch.....	13
2.3.3 Loudness	15
2.3.4 Length.....	15
2.3.5 Pause.....	15
2.4 Bilingual acquisition of intonation.....	16
2.4.1 Bilingual first language acquisition	16
2.4.2 Bilingual language representation and processing	16
2.4.3 Language representation and processing in bilingual first language acquisition.....	17
2.4.4 Bilingual acquisition of the phonological system of intonation.....	20
2.4.5 Bilingual acquisition of the phonetic parameters of intonation	21
2.5 A model of the bilingual acquisition of intonation	22
3. Bilingual acquisition of nucleus placement	25
3.1 The phonological systems of nucleus placement in German and English	25
3.2 The phonetic production of nuclei	27
3.2.1 Pitch and pitch movement during stressed syllables	29
3.2.2 Intensity	29
3.2.3 Length.....	29
3.3 The acquisition of nucleus placement.....	30
3.3.1 The acquisition of word stress	31
3.3.2 Transition to sentence-level stress	33
3.3.3 Acquisition of the phonological rules of nucleus placement	34
3.4 Mastery of the phonetic production of nuclear stress and emphasis	35
3.5 Research questions.....	35

4. Bilingual acquisition of the system of pitch.....	37
4.1 The phonological systems of pitch in English and German.....	37
4.2 The phonetic production of pitch accents in English and German.....	42
4.3 The acquisition of the phonological system of pitch.....	44
4.4 Mastery of the phonetic production of pitch accents	48
4.5 Research questions.....	49
5. Bilingual acquisition of intonational phrasing.....	51
5.1 The phonological systems of intonational phrasing in English and German	51
5.2 The phonetic correlates of intonational phrases	54
5.3 The acquisition of intonational phrasing	55
5.4 Mastery of the phonetic correlates of intonational phrasing	57
5.5 Research questions.....	57
6. The study - research questions, method and analysis	59
6.1 Research questions.....	59
6.1.1 Nucleus placement.....	59
6.1.2 Pitch.....	60
6.1.3 Intonational phrasing	60
6.2 Method.....	61
6.2.1 Data.....	61
6.2.2 The subjects of the study	61
6.2.3 Data collection	63
6.3 Analysis	63
6.3.1 Data.....	63
6.3.2 Auditory analysis and layout of the transcription	67
6.3.3 Reliability of the auditory analysis	71
6.3.4 Acoustic analysis	72
6.3.5 Agreement between the two kinds of analysis.....	78
7. Results	79
7.1 Hannah's general acquisition path: 2;1 to 2;6.....	79
7.2 Laura's general acquisition path: 2;5 to 4;3.....	83
7.3 Adam's general acquisition path: 3;6 to 5;5	96
8. The acquisition of nucleus placement.....	105
8.1 Hannah: Acquisition from 2;1 to 2;6	105
8.1.1 Phonological use of nucleus placement at 2;1	105
8.1.2 Phonetic production of stress	107
8.1.3 Production of nuclei at 2;6.....	110
8.2 Laura: Acquisition from 2;5 to 4;3	112
8.2.1 Phonological use of nucleus placement	112
8.2.2 The phonetic production of nuclei	115
8.3 Adam: Acquisition from 3;6 to 5;5	117
8.3.1 Phonological use of nucleus placement	117
8.3.2 The phonetic production of nuclei	120

9. The acquisition of the system of pitch	124
9.1 Hannah: Acquisition from 2;1 to 2;6	124
9.1.1 Phonological use of pitch.....	124
9.1.2 Marking of the communicative situation by pitch	125
9.1.3 Hannah's acquisition of the systematic use of pitch in questions	126
9.1.4 The phonetic production of pitch accents	127
9.2 Laura: Acquisition from 2;5 to 4;3	129
9.2.1 Phonological use of pitch.....	129
9.2.2 Laura's acquisition of the systematic use of pitch in questions	130
9.2.3 The phonetic production of pitch accents	133
9.2.4 Laura's phonetic pattern	135
9.3 Adam: Acquisition from 3;6 to 5;5	137
9.3.1 Phonological use of pitch.....	137
9.3.2 Adam's acquisition of the systematic use of pitch in questions.....	139
9.3.3 The phonetic production of pitch accents	139
9.3.4 Adam's phonetic pattern	140
10. The acquisition of intonational phrasing.....	146
10.1 Hannah: Acquisition from 2;1 to 2;6	146
10.1.1 Production of phonetic correlates of intonational phrases	146
10.1.2 Phonological use of intonational phrasing	149
10.2 Laura: Acquisition from 2;5 to 4;3	150
10.2.1 Production of the phonetic correlates of intonational phrases	150
10.2.2 Phonological use of intonational phrasing	154
10.3 Adam: Acquisition from 3;6 to 5;5	156
11. Summary and discussion	162
11.1 Summary and discussion.....	162
11.1.1 Nucleus placement.....	162
11.1.2 Pitch	164
11.1.3 Intonational phrasing	164
11.1.4 Bilingual acquisition of intonation.....	165
11.1.5 Bilingual vs. monolingual acquisition	167
11.2 The model revised.....	168
11.3 The acquisition of intonation in the general language acquisition process	170
11.4 Outlook and future research.....	171
