

Contents

Preface	vii
Symbols	viii
Chapter I. PROSODY AND PROSODIC FEATURES	1
1. Defining prosody	1
2. Characteristics of prosody	5
3. The syllable	10
References	18
Chapter II. STRESS AND ACCENT	19
1. The phenomenon stress	19
2. Linguistic views of stress	27
3. Principles of stress distribution	35
4. Principles of accent placement	39
References	49
Chapter III. RHYTHM	51
1. The nature of rhythm	51
2. Speech rhythm	53
3. English speech rhythm	55
4. Rules of English speech rhythm	60
References	62
Chapter IV. INTONATION	63
1. Levels of analysis	63
2. Phonological models	64
3. The basic unit	73
References	76
Chapter V. A SYSTEM OF INTONATION	78
1. Internal tone-unit organization	78
2. Nuclear and non-nuclear tones	90
3. External tone-unit organization	101
4. The system and its claims	107
References	109

Chapter VI. FUNCTIONS OF INTONATION	110
1. Intonation and meaningful contrasts	110
2. On establishing intonation functions	114
3. Universal functions of intonation	116
4. Linguistic functions of intonation	118
References	120
Chapter VII. INTONATION AND INFORMATION	121
1. The informational function of intonation	121
2. Assessing the claims	128
References	138
Chapter VIII. INTONATION AND GRAMMAR	139
1. The definition and scope of grammar	140
2. The case for a grammatical function	141
3. The case against a grammatical function	151
References	157
Chapter IX. INTONATION AND ILLOCUTION	158
1. Locution – illocution – perlocution	158
2. Illocution and intonation	163
3. Intonation and questioning	169
References	172
Chapter X. INTONATION AND ATTITUDE	173
1. Separating the linguistic from the non-linguistic	173
2. Investigations of intonation and attitude	175
3. Resolved and unresolved problems	182
References	187
Chapter XI. INTONATION AND TEXT/DISOURSE	188
1. On the notions of text and discourse	188
2. The role of intonation in text	189
3. The role of intonation in discourse	200
References	208
Epilogue	209
Recordings	210
Bibliography	211
Index	233