

Contents

Series editor's introduction	ix
Acknowledgements	xii
What the book is about and how to use it	xiv
1 PRELUDES	1
1.1 The approach: textual intervention	1
Further re-writing and reading	13
1.2 De- and re-centring a literary classic	14
Another re-writing and reading	30
1.3 Work-outs with words	31
Further re-writing and reading	44
2 SUBJECTS AND AGENTS; SELVES AND OTHERS	46
2.1 Subjects and subjection; agents and agency	46
2.2 Personal, interpersonal and depersonalised	49
2.3 Versions of Nagasaki, 9 August 1945	54
2.4 Presentation of 'self' and 'other' in personal ads	57
2.5 Lyric voices	60
2.6 Extended work-out: re-genreing the 'I' in poetry, pop, psychiatry and advertising	64
2.7 Summary act	68
Further re-writing and reading	68
3 FROM NARRATIVE TO NARRATION AND BEYOND	70
3.1 Preliminary practices and theories	70

viii CONTENTS

3.2 Sense and non/sense in narration	81
3.3 Extended work-out: re-visiting Robinson Crusoe Further re-writing and reading	99 114
4 DIALOGUE, DISCOURSE AND DRAMATIC INTERVENTION	120
4.1 Preliminary definitions	120
4.2 Assertiveness and non/cooperative principles	127
4.3 Plotting alternative outcomes in conversation and drama	129
4.4 Cross-cultural dialogues with and within 'Eng. Lit.'	141
4.5 Extended work-out: re-producing Hamlet Further re-writing and reading	163 181
5 REVIEW OF THEORIES AND PRACTICES	183
5.1 Relevant and usable theory – a bibliographical essay	183
5.2 Stylistic checklist	192
5.3 Types of textual intervention	196
Bibliography	203
Index	211