

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1.	INTRODUCTION . . . . .	1
1.1.	Method and scope of the study . . . . .	2
1.2.	Light in the Anglo-Saxon world . . . . .	11
1.3.	Light and Germanic paganism as reflected in the secondary literature . . . . .	18
2.	PREPARATORY TO LIGHT IN ANGLO-SAXON PROSE: THE EARLIEST SOURCES AND THEIR RELEVANCE . . . . .	33
2.1.	Archaeology . . . . .	34
2.2.	Runes . . . . .	55
2.3.	Place-names . . . . .	58
2.4.	Ancient history . . . . .	64
3.	THE MOTIF OF LIGHT AND DARKNESS IN ANGLO- SAXON AND ANGLO-LATIN PROSE . . . . .	72
3.1.	Genealogy and law . . . . .	73
3.2.	Charms and leechdoms . . . . .	81
3.3.	History and science . . . . .	85
3.4.	Theology . . . . .	111
4.	PREPARATORY TO LIGHT IN ANGLO-SAXON POETRY: ORAL FORMULAIC THEORY AND SOME REVISIONS . . . . .	143
4.1.	A brief overview of oral formulaic theory . . . . .	145
4.2.	The formula and formulaic system . . . . .	148
4.3.	The cluster: a new concept and a hypothesis . . . . .	158
4.4.	The theme and the type-scene . . . . .	162
4.5.	A structural overview of concepts . . . . .	163

5.	THE MOTIF OF LIGHT AND DARKNESS IN ANGLO-SAXON POETRY . . . . .	174
5.1.	Light in the natural world . . . . .	175
5.2.	Predominantly pagan contexts . . . . .	190
5.3.	Predominantly Christian contexts . . . . .	199
5.4.	Syncretistic images of light . . . . .	205
5.5.	A new theme - Sol Salutis and and Anglo-Saxon poetry . . . . .	209
6.	CONCLUSION . . . . .	227
	APPENDIX I: Abbreviations . . . . .	230
	APPENDIX II: Figures and their sources . . . . .	237
	BIBLIOGRAPHY . . . . .	246
	ABSTRACT (SUMMARY OF CONTENTS) . . . . .	315