

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Note on Quotations and Citations	xiv
Abbreviations Used in Footnotes	xv
Chapter I The Idea of an Idea	1
Chapter II A Book About the World	21
1. The Canterbury Tales as a Comedy	30
2. Morality and Irony	45
3. The Canterbury Tales as a Book	56
4. The Way of the World	67
Chapter III Style	75
1. The Narrative Now	78
2. Obsolescence and the Social Fabric	89
3. The Ideal and the Actual	109
4. Irony and the Social Fabric	117
5. The Search for the World	125
Chapter IV Memory and Form	134
1. The General Prologue	139
2. The Outer Form: The "Frame"	159
3. The Inner Form: The Tales	173
4. The Esthetics of this Form	188

Chapter V	The Tales: A Theory of Their Structure	210
1.	The Tales of Civil Conduct: Fragment I	227
2.	The Tales of Domestic Conduct: Fragments III-IV-V	247
3.	The Tales of Private Conduct: Fragment VII	271
4.	The Closing Tales: Fragments VIII-IX	288
5.	The Esthetics of this Structure and Its Relation to the Form	306
Chapter VI	The Pardoner and the Parson	333
1.	The "Floating" Fragment	333
2.	The Pardoner as a Grotesque	339
3.	The Pardoner's Tale as Dream and Happening	357
4.	The Two Sermons	371
5.	The Two Books	380
Index		389