

Contents

| | |
|--|-----|
| List of Illustrations | ix |
| Acknowledgments | xi |
| Introduction: Laughter, Play, and Fiction | I |
| 1. Reading for Sentence versus Reading for Solas : A Broadening Example | 5 |
| 2. The Spirit versus the Flesh in Art and Interpretation | 20 |
| 3. Power and Play: The Consolations of Fiction I | 34 |
| 4. Dangerous Desires and Play: The Consolations of Fiction II | 54 |
| 5. Breaking Verbal Taboos: The Consolations of Fiction III | 74 |
| 6. "Straw for Youre Gentillesse": Symbolic Rebellion in the Canterbury Tales | 98 |
| 7. Deauthorizing the Text: Setting Up the Game of the Canterbury Tales | 130 |
| Conclusion: The Canterbury Tales as Stabilized and Stabilizing Structure | 153 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| Appendix: The Troilus Frontispiece and the Dramatic Presentation of Chaucer's Verse | 163 |
| Notes | 175 |
| Index | 209 |