

Contents

Foreword, Robert H. Felix, M.D., xi

Introduction, xv

- 1 Crisis: A Different Approach to Mental Illness, 1
A review of previous theoretical and clinical work in crisis therapy and the theoretical background for doing crisis therapy on a family basis.
- 2 The Technic of Family Crisis Therapy, 17
The rationale for treating whole families in crisis (as opposed to individuals) and a detailed explanation of the technics of family crisis therapy.
- 3 Selected Topics in Family Crisis Therapy, 34
The specific operations by the mental health team doing family crisis therapy and the distinctive activities of the various disciplines.
- 4 A Crisis of Marital Separation, 67
A detailed case presentation of a marital crisis and the treatment including some verbatim material from recordings of treatment sessions.
- 5 Acute Psychosis in an Adolescent: A Crisis of Development, 98
Account of the development and resolution of an acute catatonic reaction in an adolescent girl.
- 6 A Caretaker Crisis, 113
Description of caretaker crisis and its management including recorded material from the interview with the caretaker.
- 7 Crisis in a Doll's House Family, 127
The treatment of a crisis arising from a threatened change in a long-term family pattern.
- 8 Evaluating Family Crisis Treatment, 146
A review of the pertinent psychologic tests for families; an explanation of the evaluative aspects and research design of this project.

9 The Results of Family Crisis Therapy, 156

A clinical description of the results of family crisis treatment on individual families together with statistical results of the avoidance of hospitalization both during treatment and during follow-up. A comparison of family crisis treatment with mental hospital treatment of a control group will be included in this chapter.

10 Implications, 172

Index, 183