

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction ix

1 Varieties of Xphi, Pragmatic Distortion, and the No-Theory Theory of Intuitions 1

1.1 Introduction 1

1.2 Positive versus Negative Xphi: Some Sample Studies 2

1.3 The Negative Xphi Critique 17

1.4 Pragmatic Distortion 21

1.5 The No-Theory Theory of Intuitions 24

2 Intuitions and Counterexamples 33

2.1 Introduction 33

2.2 The State/Content Ambiguity of "Intuition" 35

2.3 Two Case Studies: Gettier and Kripke 39

2.4 More General Methodological Misrepresentations 52

2.5 Evidence for the Evidence 55

3 The Relocation Problem and Williamson on "Judgment Skepticism" 59

3.1 Introduction 59

3.2 The Relocation Problem and a Sketch of a Solution 61

3.3 Williamson on "Judgment Skepticism" 63

4 The Evidence for the Evidence: Arguing for Gettier Judgments 73

4.1 Introduction 73

4.2 Arguing for Intuitions 74

4.3 Arguing for Gettier Judgments 78

4.4 Inventing Thought Experiments and the Order of Explanation
Objection 95

5	More Evidence for the Evidence and the Relocation Problem Redux	101
5.1	Introduction	101
5.2	More Evidence for the Evidence	103
5.3	The Relocation Problem Redux	122
6	Other Replies to Xphi: The Expertise and Multiple Concepts Replies	129
6.1	Introduction	129
6.2	The Expertise Reply	134
6.3	The Multiple Concepts Reply	145
6.4	The Right Reply	153
	Conclusion: Armchairs versus Lab Coats?	157
	Notes	163
	References	183
	Index	189