

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Chronology of Poetry Publications and Enterprises by Women, 1910–1939	x
1 Introduction	1
2 The Literary Context	13
Introduction	13
Escaping the Feminine	15
‘Would-be manliness’: Gender, Politics and Poetic Form	21
Publishing and Literary Criticism: ‘Our War is with Words’	27
Women’s Initiatives	30
3 Rear-Guard Modernism	35
Introduction	35
Women’s Poetry and the First World War	41
Between the Georgians and Bloomsbury: Frances Cornford (1886–1960) and Vita Sackville-West (1892–1962)	61
4 The British Avant-Garde: Edith Sitwell (1887–1964) and the Women of Wheels – Nancy Cunard (1896–1965), Iris Tree (1897–1968) and Helen Rootham (d. 1938)	89
Introduction	89
Wheels (1916–1921)	93
Edith Sitwell	95
Nancy Cunard, Iris Tree and Helen Rootham	111
5 The Anglo-American Avant-Garde: H.D. (1886–1961), Amy Lowell (1874–1925), Marianne Moore (1887–1972), Laura (Riding) Jackson (1901–1991), Gertrude Stein (1874–1946) and Mina Loy (1882–1966)	125
Introduction	125
H.D., Amy Lowell and Imagism	132
Marianne Moore, Laura Riding, Gertrude Stein and Mina Loy	144

6	Female Modernism	172
	Introduction	172
	‘Female Consciousness’: Charlotte Mew (1869–1928) and May Sinclair (1863–1946)	176
	New Woman Poets: Edna St Vincent Millay (1892–1950), Anna Wickham (1884–1947) and Sylvia Townsend Warner (1893–1978)	193
7	The 1930s: Cultural Politics and the Poetry of Sylvia Townsend Warner, Valentine Ackland, Nancy Cunard, Winifred Holtby, Naomi Mitchison and Stevie Smith	215
	Introduction	215
8	Conclusion: The Legacy of Modernism	248
	Bibliography	252
	Index	277