

Contents

Preface	vii
Introduction: writing at the margins: postcolonialism, exoticism and the politics of cultural value	1
Postcolonialism in the age of global commodity culture	1
Exoticism in the margins	13
Toward a definition of the postcolonial exotic	28
1 African literature and the anthropological exotic	34
2 Consuming India	58
1997	58
1981	69
2000	77
3 Staged marginalities: Rushdie, Naipaul, Kureishi	83
4 Prizing otherness: a short history of the Booker	105
Introduction	105
Two cheers for Booker: the emergence of a literary patron	106
Revision and revival: Booker versions of the Raj (and after)	112
Conclusion	118
Appendix: Booker Prize management and adjudication procedures	121

5 Exoticism, ethnicity and the multicultural fallacy	124
Introduction	124
Comparing histories: Canadian and Australian multiculturalisms	126
Comparing literatures: Canadian and Australian multicultural writing	133
Bissoondath and Demidenko	138
Elliott and Egoyan	147
Conclusion	153
6 Ethnic autobiography and the cult of authenticity	155
Introduction: the demand for autobiography	155
Autobiography, gender and the paradoxes of Native authenticity	157
Aboriginal women's life-narratives and the construction of the 'market reader'	164
Conclusion: competing authenticities, or, some passing thoughts on passing	174
7 Transformations of the tourist gaze: Asia in recent Canadian and Australian fiction	177
Exoticism and the tourist gaze	177
Spiritual tourists	180
Anti-tourist tourists	193
8 Margaret Atwood, Inc., or, some thoughts on literary celebrity	209
Preface: soundings from the Atwood industry	209
Atwood as celebrity	210
Atwood and the canon	217
The Margaret Atwood Society	223
Conclusion: thinking at the margins: postcolonial studies at the millennium	228
The rise of postcolonial studies	228
Postcolonial studies and the pedagogic imaginary	243
Coda: postcolonial Tintin	262
Notes	265
Bibliography	291
Index	317