

Contents

Preface	9
Chapter 1 WHAT LANGUAGE IS	13
Introduction	13
What Language is	17
How the English Language Works	19
Implications for the Study of Language and Behaviour	24
Language as System and Language as Resource	29
Chapter 2 LANGUAGE IN USE: FUNCTIONS	36
Introduction	36
How Functions might be Classified	37
A List of Functions	44
Commentary	52
Chapter 3 BERNSTEIN'S THESIS: THE MEANING OF CODES	57
Introduction	57
Definitions of the Codes	62
Changes in the Conception of the Codes	63
The Meaning of Code	69
The Meanings of Elaborated and Restricted	70
Chapter 4 DEFINITIONS OF RESTRICTED AND ELABORATED CODES	75
Linguistic	75
Psychological	81
Sociological	84
Summary and Conclusions	88
Chapter 5 EVIDENCE FROM THE NORTHERN HEMISPHERE	91
Introduction	91
Alternative Explanations	92
Evidence from the Northern Hemisphere	95
Representational Function	96

Inquiry Function	107
Regulation of Others	108
Marking of Social Identity	112
Attention, Comprehension, and Interpretation	112
Summary Evaluation	115
Chapter 6 THE AUSTRALIAN SCENE	118
Preliminaries	118
Evidence about Speech and Writing	123
Davis	123
Owens	124
Poole (1971)	126
Kiellerup	129
Russell	130
Brotherton	135
Poole (1973)	136
Holt	142
Muster	143
Chapter 7 THE WAY AHEAD	148
Too Simple a Story	148
Sociology Denuded	150
Psychology by Assumption	153
Language Decoded	157
Education	165
From Codes to Reality	171
From Reality to a Better One	176
AUTHOR INDEX	185
SUBJECT INDEX	187