

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I. INTRODUCTORY I

1. Use of the phrase 'Anglo-Indian fiction'. 2. Three periods of Anglo-Indian fiction. 3. Main ingredients of a novel of Anglo-Indian life. 4. Early Anglo-Indians. 5. 'Qui-Hai' of the early nineteenth century. 6. 'Competition Wallah'. 7. Anglo-India to-day, its characteristics—imperialistic but isolated, discriminately hospitable, its monotony, its snobbery, its melancholy, its conservatism, its calling-hour, its indifference to religion, its social constitution, religion of work, misrepresentation of Anglo-Indian women.

CHAPTER II. MEADOWS TAYLOR AND OTHER PREDECESSORS OF KIPLING 31

8. Beginnings of Anglo-Indian fiction. 9. W. B. Hockley. 10. Scott's The Surgeon's Daughter. 11. Dickens and India. 12. Thackeray and India. 13. Meadows Taylor—Confessions of a Thug, Tippoo Sultan, Taylor's historical trilogy, his general characteristics. 14. Other novelists, 1834-53. 15. W. D. Arnold. 16. Post-Mutiny novels, 1859-69. 17. Precursors of Kipling—Phil Robinson, Prichard, Cunningham, Alexander Allardyce.

CHAPTER III. RUDYARD KIPLING 68

18. Kipling's Anglo-Indian stories. 19. Kipling's Indian stories. 20. Kim and The Naulabka. 21. Kipling's limitations. 22. Kipling's knowledge of Indian women.

CHAPTER IV. RUDYARD KIPLING AND HIS SCHOOL 83

23. Influence of Kipling on short-story writers. 24. Mrs. F. A. Steel. 25. Mrs. Alice Perrin. 26. Otto Rothfeld and 'Andrul'. 27. Edmund Candler. 28. Sir Edmund Cox, Herbert Sherring, Richard Dehan, E. M. Dell, A. T. Marris, and John Eyton. 29. 'Afghan'. 30. The Ranee of Sarawak, Maud Diver, and Mrs. E. W. Savi. 31. Hilton Brown. 32. Miss Mayo, Mrs. L. A. Beck, and Mr. Humfrey Jordan. 33. Kipling and his imitators—Talbot Mundy, 'Ganpat', and Alice Eustace. 34. Foran, Somers, and A. E. R. Craig. 35. Kim's cousins. 36. S. K. Ghosh.

CHAPTER V. NOVELS OF ANGLO-INDIAN LIFE—1 109

37. Mrs. B. M. Croker. 38. Mrs. Maud Diver. 39. 'John Travers' (Mrs. G. H. Bell). 40. Mrs. Alice Perrin. 41. Mrs. E. W. Savi. 42. Shelland Bradley.

CHAPTER VI. NOVELS OF ANGLO-INDIAN LIFE—2 136

43. Frontier novels—S. S. Thorburn, Captain Bedford Foran, W. G. Curtis Morgan. 44. Sir Francis Younghusband. 45. 'Afghan', Michael John, John Delbridge, and Mrs. T. Pennell. 46. Novels of Anglo-Burmese life. 47. Novels of missionary life—Mrs. Alice Perrin, Mrs. F. E. Penny, Henry Bruce, Miss Margaret Wilson, Dr. Mary Scharlieb, and Honoré Willsie Morrow. 48. Life in the moffusil—Miss Isobel Mountain, Hilton Brown, John Eyton and Edward Thompson.

CHAPTER VII. NOVELS OF MIXED MARRIAGES AND EURASIAN LIFE 165

49. (a) Marriage of an Englishman with an Indian girl—J. W. Sherer, G. Dick, Donald Sinderby, Mrs. Maud Diver, and Reginald Campbell. (b) Marriage of an English girl with an Indian—Mrs. F. E. Penny, Mrs. E. W. Savi, A. E. R. Craig, E. Maddock, S. H. Woolf, John Eyton, The Confessions of a Princess by ?, Jane Hukk. 50. Novels of Eurasian life—Mrs. Milne Rae, P. C. Wren, Miss Irene Burn, Shelland Bradley. 51. Eurasian beauty. 52. Henry Bruce. 53. The Ranee of Sarawak.

CHAPTER VIII. INDIAN POLITICS AND ANGLO-INDIAN NOVELS 195

54. Beginnings of Indian nationalism—Mrs. F. E. Penny, A. F. Wallis, Beresford, Hobart-Hampden. 55. Edmund Candler and Indian unrest, Miss Irene Burn and Henry Bruce. 56. Novels of the second period of Indian nationalism—Mrs. E. W. Savi, R. J. Minney, Lieut.-Col. W. P. Drury, H. K. Gordon. 57. Novels of the third period of Indian nationalism—Y. Endrikar, Mrs. Beatrice Sheepshanks, Hamish Blair, Mrs. Theodore Pennell, and S. Woods Hill.

CHAPTER IX. E. M. FORSTER AND EDWARD THOMPSON

58. A Passage to India. 59. Edward Thompson.

CONTENTS

xi

CHAPTER X. INDIAN HISTORY IN ANGLO-INDIAN FICTION 241

60. Buddhist period. 61. Hindu period—Ayyar. 62. Mughal period—Mrs. F. A. Steel, L. H. Myers. 63. Seventeenth-century. Aurangzeb and Shivaji. 64. East India Company—'Sydney C. Grier' (Miss Hilda Gregg), Frank R. Sell. 65. Begum Somru—Lt.-Gen. G. F. MacMunn, Mrs. G. H. Bell, and V. E. Bannisdale. 66. Wars in the nineteenth century. 67. Novels of the Indian Mutiny. 68. Siege of Delhi, and Mrs. Steel—On the Face of the Waters. 69. Annexation of Upper Burma—Miss Tennyson Jesse.

CHAPTER XI. THE MYSTERIOUS EAST, OR THE ANGLO-INDIAN MYSTERY NOVELS 268

70. Jewel hunting—Marion Crawford, L. Bamberg, 'Ganpat', J. I. Emery, Lady Chitty, Helen Fairley, John Easton, Eleanor Pegg, Arthur Greening, Joan Conquest, G. E. Locke. 71. Novels of the occult—John Henry Willmer, Mme Z. L. Cavalier, C. E. Bechhofer, R. E. Goddard, Mrs. L. A. Beck. 72. Novels dealing with conspiracy against the British Raj—John Ferguson, Alastair Shannon, Mrs. L. A. Beck, Alexander Wilson, Sir Henry Sharp, Hazel Campbell.

CHAPTER XII. EAST AS SEEN BY WEST, OR ANGLO-INDIAN NOVELS OF INDIAN LIFE 283

73. Mrs. F. E. Penny—The mysterious East, Life of the zenana, Indian marriage, Mrs. Penny's characters and her descriptions. 74. Edmund White. 75. R. J. Minney. 76. Conclusion.

APPENDIX. A NOTE ON SOME INDIAN WRITERS OF ENGLISH FICTION 306

BIBLIOGRAPHY 311

- (a) A List of Anglo-Indian Novels.
- (b) Criticism and Biography.
- (c) Articles and Reviews.

A GLOSSARY OF INDIAN WORDS USED IN THE BOOK 337

INDEX 340