

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	ix
1. Introduction	1
Ideology	4
Literary Theory	11
2. 'Mau Mau' as a Historical Phenomenon	20
Problems of Definition	20
'Causes' of the Revolt	23
Origins and Organisation of the 'Mau Mau' and History of the Oath	30
Conduct of the Campaign: 'Mau Mau Atrocities' and State and Settler Repression	36
Social Composition of the 'Mau Mau' Movement	41
Towards a Categorical Definition of the Movement	46
Ideologies of the History of 'Mau Mau'	49
The Colonial Interpretation and 'Mau Mau' Oathing Ceremonies	49
Post-Independence Accounts: 'Mau Mau' Autobiographies and 'Progressive' and 'Reactionary' Nationalist Interpretations	56
3. Kenyan Colonial Settler Ideology	66
The Colonial Economy as a Determinant of Settler Ideology	66
Colonial Settler Ideology in its Aspect as Metropolitan Export	74
Colonial Settler Race Ideology: Myths and Stereotypes	77
Kenyan Colonial Settler Ideology as a Variant of Fascist Ideology	93
Terminology of Colonial Accounts of 'Mau Mau'	97
4. Nothing of Value: Colonial Fiction about 'Mau Mau'	106
Fiction as Propaganda and the Settler Novelists	106
The Embodiment in Fiction of Colonial Myths About 'Mau Mau'	114
Fictional Devices Used in Propounding Colonial Settler Ideology	127
The Fiction's Rendering Visible of the Ideological Structures of Colonial Fascism	136

5. 'Plus ça Change. . .': Liberal Fiction from the Metropolis	157
The Effect of Settler Propaganda on the Metropolitan Image of 'Mau Mau'	157
The 'Liberal' Fiction	163
6. Economy, Politics and Ideology in Post-Independence Kenya	183
From Colonial to Neo-Colonial Economy	184
Key Components of the Dominant Ideology: 'Unity', the Kenyatta Myth, and the Rejection of 'Mau Mau'	190
7. Novels of the 'Freedom'	206
Post-Independence Fiction as Praise-Song to the 'Leader'	208
Further Resemblances to the Colonial Fiction: the Aesthetics of 'Balance' and the Politics of Contempt	218
8. Not Yet the Freedom	230
The Changing Image of 'Mau Mau' in Ngugi's Novels	230
A Grain of Wheat as the Exemplary 'Crisis Text'	247
Conclusion	258
Bibliography	266
Index	275