

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	page vii
Introduction	xiii
THE DRAMA 1940–1990
Christopher Bigsby, University of East Anglia
1 Introduction	3
2 Tennessee Williams	10
3 Arthur Miller	20
4 Edward Albee	44
5 Sam Shepard	52
6 David Mamet	65
7 Changing America: A Changing Drama?	76
FICTION AND SOCIETY, 1940–1970
Morris Dickstein, Graduate Center, City University of New York
1 War and the Novel: From World War II to Vietnam	103
2 The New Fiction: From the Home Front to the 1950s	135
3 On and Off the Road: The Outsider as Young Rebel	165
4 Apocalypse Now: A Literature of Extremes	224
AFTER THE SOUTHERN RENAISSANCE
John Burt, Brandeis University
1 Introduction	313
2 Robert Penn Warren	320
3 Carson McCullers	342
4 Flannery O'Connor	347
5 Eudora Welty	356
6 Novels of Race and Class	367
7 Novels of Slavery and Reconstruction	375
8 Walker Percy	392
9 Reynolds Price	405
10 Peter Taylor	421

	POSTMODERN FICTIONS, 1970–1990	425
	Wendy Steiner, University of Pennsylvania
1	Rethinking Postmodernism	427
2	Fables of the Fetish	451
3	The End of Traditionalism	479
4	Women's Fiction: The Rewriting of History	499
5	Conclusion	528
	EMERGENT LITERATURES	539
	Cyrus R. K. Patell, New York University
1	From Marginal to Emergent	541
2	Comparative Racism and the Logic of Naturalization	564
3	Nisei Sons and Daughters	592
4	Legacies of the Sixties	615
5	Refusing to Go Straight	655
6	Beyond Hybridity	671
	Appendix: Biographies	676
	Chronology, 1940–1990	717
	Bibliography	763
	Index	775