

Contents

1. History as Wound	1
2. “Haunted America”: Louise Erdrich and Native American History	18
The Wounds of History in Tracks	22
“Native” Voices	28
Righting History in The Bingo Palace	35
3. Toni Morrison and the Desire for a “Genuine Black History Book”	51
The Black Book and African American History	56
The (Im)Possibility of Historical Recovery in Beloved	60
Jazz and Collective Rememory	70
“Deafened By the Roar of Its Own History”: Paradise	87
4. Remembering Holocaust History	98
The Museum on the Mall	101
Irena Klepfisz: From Mourning to Remembrance	113
5. Joy Kogawa and the Peculiar “Logic” of Internment	137
History and Hysteria	142
Obasan : A History of Trauma	152
Epilogue: History and Healing	169

viii Contents

Notes 185

Bibliography 221

Index 235

Acknowledgments 241