

Contents

Introduction	1
by Joseph Sommers and Tomás Ybarra-Frausto
I. A Conceptual Framework
The Folk Base of Chicano Literature	4
by Américo Paredes
Mexican American Literature: A Historical Perspective	18
by Luis Leal
Critical Approaches to Chicano Literature	31
by Joseph Sommers
Spanish Codes in the Southwest	41
by Rosaura Sánchez
Toward a Concept of Culture	54
by Juan Gómez-Quiñones
II. The Narrative: Focus on Tomás Rivera
Notes on the Evolution of Chicano Prose Fiction	67
by Juan Rodríguez
Tomás Rivera's Appropriation of the Chicano Past	74
by Ralph Grajeda
Narrative Technique and Human Experience in Tomás Rivera	86
by Daniel P. Testa
Interpreting Tomás Rivera	94
by Joseph Sommers
III. Poetry: Alurista, Villanueva, Lucero, Zamora, Montoya
An Introduction to Chicano Poetry	108
by Felipe de Ortego y Gasca

Alurista's Poetics: The Oral, The Bilingual, The Pre-Columbian by Tomás Ybarra-Frausto	117
The Other Voice of Silence: Tino Villanueva by Bruce-Novoa	133
Judy Lucero and Bernice Zamora: Two Dialectical Statements in Chicana Poetry by Marta Sánchez	141
Linguistic Structures in José Montoya's "El Louie" by Ignacio Orlando Trujillo	150
IV. Theater: Focus on El Teatro Campesino
The Development of Chicano Drama and Luis Valdez' Actos by Carlota Cárdenas de Dwyer	160
Brecht and Chicano Theater by Barclay Goldsmith	167
From acto to mito : A Critical Appraisal of the Teatro Campesino by Yvonne Yarbrow-Bejarano	176
Notes on the Editors and the Authors	186
Selected Bibliography	189