

Table of Contents

Introduction	11
 1. The Racist Southern White Discourse around the Turn of the Century and First Attempts at Its Subversion, 1890-1918	 25
• Thomas Nelson Page and Joel Chandler Harris	35
• George Washington Cable	38
• Charles W. Chesnutt	42
• Sutton E. Griggs	49
• Thomas Dixon	52
• Kate Chopin, Ellen Glasgow and Grace King	58
• James Weldon Johnson	70
 2. The 'Harlem Renaissance' and the 'Southern Renaissance': Two Attempts at Revising Traditional Discourses, 1918-1930	 77
• T. S. Stribling	86
• Walter White	89
• Jean Toomer	92
• Du Bose Heyward and Julia Peterkin	105
• William Faulkner	115
 3. The Beginning of the Depression: Southern White Writers Probe the Racist Discourse of the Agrarians, 1930-1935	 127
• Allen Tate	135
• Thomas Wolfe	140
• T. S. Stribling	143
• Myra Page, Grace Lumpkin and Olive Tilford Dargan	146
• Erskine Caldwell	150
• William Faulkner	157

4. The Emerging Voice of Resistance among Southern Black Writers during the Second Half of the Depression, 1935-1940	169
• Margaret Mitchell and Stark Young	177
• William Faulkner	183
• Arna Bontemps	193
• George Washington Lee, Waters Edward Turpin and George Wylie Henderson	203
• Zora Neale Hurston	205
 Conclusion	 225
 Notes	 231
 References	 249