

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	ix
European Cold War Culture(s)? An Introduction Annette Vowinckel, Marcus M. Payk, Thomas Lindenberger	1
I. MEDIATING THE COLD WAR: RADIO, FILM, TELEVISION, AND LITERATURE
Chapter 1. East European Cold War Culture(s): Alterities, Commonalities, and Film Industries Marsha Siefert	23
Chapter 2. “We Started the Cold War”: A Hidden Message behind Stalin’s Attack on Anna Akhmatova Olga Voronina	55
Chapter 3. Radio Reform in the 1980s: RIAS and DT-64 Respond to Private Radio Edward Larkey	76
Chapter 4. The Enemy Within: (De)Dramatizing the Cold War in U.S. and West German Spy TV from the 1960s Marcus M. Payk	94
Chapter 5. Cold War Television: Olga Korbut and the Munich Olympics of 1972 Annette Vowinckel	112
II. CONSTRUCTING IDENTITIES: REPRESENTATIONS OF THE “SELF”
Chapter 6. Catholic Piety in the Early Cold War Years; or, How the Virgin Mary Protected the West from Communism Monique Scheer	129

Chapter 7. The Road to Socialism Paved With Good Intentions: Automobile Culture in the Soviet Union, Romania, and the GDR During Détente Luminita Gatejel	152
Chapter 8. Advertising, Emotions, and “Hidden Persuaders”: The Making of Cold-War Consumer Culture in Britain from the 1940s to the 1960s Stefan Schwarzkopf	172
Chapter 9. Survival in the Welfare Cocoon: The Culture of Civil Defense in Cold War Sweden Marie Cronqvist	191
 III. CROSSING THE BORDER: INTERACTIONS WITH THE “OTHER”
Chapter 10. The Peace and the War Camps: The Dichotomous Cold War Culture in Czechoslovakia: 1948–1960 Roman Krakovsky	213
Chapter 11. Artistic Style, Canonization, and Identity Politics in Cold War Germany, 1947–1960 Joes Segal	235
Chapter 12. What Does Democracy Look Like? (And Why Would Anyone Want to Buy It?): Third World Demands and West German Responses at 1960s World Youth Festivals Quinn Slobodian	254
Chapter 13. Drawing the East-West Border: Narratives of Modernity and Identity in the Northeastern Adriatic (1947–1954) Sabina Mihelj	276
 IV. THE LEGACIES OF THE COLD WAR: REMEMBRANCE AND HISTORIOGRAPHY
Chapter 14. A 1950s Revival: Cold War Culture in Reunified Germany Andrew H. Beattie	299
Chapter 15. The Mikson Case: War Crimes Memory, Estonian Identity Reconstructions, and the Transnational Politics of Justice Valur Ingimundarson	321

Chapter 16. The First Cold War Memorial in Berlin: A Short Inquiry into Europe, the Cold War, and Memory Cultures Petra Henzler	347
Notes on Contributors	370
Index	374