

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
Introduction—Open Problems on Reference Andrea Bianchi	1
Part I. The Nature of Reference	19
1. The Illusion of Semantic Reference Christopher Gauker	21
2. Reference and Theories of Meaning as Use Diego Marconi	40
3. Speaker's Reference and Cross-Cultural Semantics Edouard Machery, Justin Sytsma, and Max Deutsch	62
4. Reference without Cognition Genoveva Martí	77
5. Repetition and Reference Andrea Bianchi	93
6. Should Proper Names Still Seem So Problematic? Michael Devitt	108
Part II. Reference and Cognition	145
7. Thinking about an Individual Antonio Capuano	147
8. Drawing, Seeing, Referring: Reflections on Macbeth's Dagger Marga Reimer	173
9. The Cognitive Contribution of Names John Perry	189
Part III. Reference and Semantics	209
10. Names as Predicates? Ernesto Napoli	211
11. Names Not Predicates Robin Jeshion	225

12. "Literal" Uses of Proper Names Delia G. Fara	251
13. A Rejoinder to Fara's "Literal" Uses of Proper Names' Robin Jeshion	280
14. Empty Names, Propositions, and Attitude Ascriptions Marco Santambrogio	295
15. Millianism, Relationism, and Attitude Ascriptions Ángel Pinillos	322
16. The Dilemma of Indefinites Samuel Cumming	335
17. A Unified Treatment of (Pro-)Nominals in Ordinary English Joseph Almog, Paul Nichols, and Jessica Pepp	350
18. Individuals Explained Away Edward L. Keenan	384
Index	403