

Contents

Editor's Introduction	vii
Editor's Acknowledgements	xi

PART ONE: Lord's and other first-class occasions

The century	Jeffrey Archer	3
Byron's faultless strokeplay	Ted Dexter and Clifford Makins	12
A very personal form of attack	Mike Marqusee	17
The double-cross bat	Ian Peebles	26
The amazing Test match crime	Adrian Alington	36
Northshire v. Downshire: first day	Dudley Carew	41
Teddy's first season	Bruce Hamilton	56
My hour on the stage	Christopher Hollis	63
A Lancashire triumph	Cyril Alington	67
Ginger Stott's genius	J.D. Beresford	71
'We want Jessop!'	A.A. Thomson	86
'I took up Rhodes' bat'	Stanley Shaw	95
Versus Australia	B. and C.B. Fry	106
Rugby v. Kent	George Macdonald Fraser	115

PART TWO: Willingly to school

Comin' thro' the rye	Helen Mathers	131
Sixth v. School	Talbot Baines Reed	136
Mike at the nets	P.G. Wodehouse	146
Fathers of Men	E.W. Hornung	152
Ten to make . . .	E.F. Benson	163
'A lot of jealousy in cricket'	Frank Richards	173

His last triumph	Alec Waugh	176
Return of a hero	Bruce Marshall	184
The 'M.C.C.'	R.K. Narayan	195
'The last of the grand old series'	R. Gorell Barnes	205
Keeping a straight bat	Brian Glanville	207

PART THREE: The village green and other commons

Cricket is a confidence trick	A.C.H. Smith	219
The end of the season in Sinji	J.L. Carr	223
The ring-in	Dal Stevens	233
The Brensham Village side	John Moore	240
The novice: Down under	Denzil Batchelor	251
England, their England	A.G. Macdonell	263
Gauvinier's last game	Hugh de Selincourt	279
A Country House Match and some Lookers-On	E.R. Eddison	284
Caught sub.	L.P. Hartley	294
The cussedness of cricket	J.C. Snaith	309
Friends for life	George Meredith	319
Why don't more gentlemen take up cricket?	George Meredith	321
How the Dingley Dell Cricket Club played	All-Muggleton Charles Dickens	323

EPILOGUE

A farewell to arms	Eric N. Simons	331
--------------------	-----------------------	-----

APPENDIX: Cricket in Fiction	Gerald Brodribb	339
------------------------------	------------------------	-----

Acknowledgements		350
------------------	--	-----