SONNETS

WYATT

Whoso list to hunt, I know where is an hind	29
My galley chargèd with forgetfulness	30
Divers doth use, as I have heard and know	30

SURREY

A complaint by night of the lover not beloved (Alas, so all things now do hold their peace)	31
Set me whereas the sun doth parch the green	32

SIDNEY

Leave me, O love which reachest but to dust	33
From Astrophil and Stella :
1 Loving in truth, and fain in verse my love to show	34
3 Let dainty wits cry on the Sisters nine	35
5 It is most true that eyes are formed to serve	36

POEMS OF THE ELIZABETHAN AGE

7	When nature made her chief work Stella's eyes	36
15	You that do search for every purling spring	37
31	With how sad steps, O moon, thou climb'st the skies!	38
39	Come, sleep, O sleep, the certain knot of peace	38
45	Stella oft sees the very face of woe	39
47	What, have I thus betrayed my liberty?	40
53	In martial sports I had my cunning tried	40
54	Because I breathe not love to everyone	41
71	Who will in fairest book of nature know	42
74	I never drank of Aganippe well	42
103	O happy Thames, that didst my Stella bear!	43

FULKE GREVILLE

From Caelica:

	Fie, foolish earth, think you the heaven wants glory	44
	The nurse-life wheat, within his green husk growing	44

DANIEL

From Delia:

	I once may see when years shall wreck my wrong	45
	These plaintive verse, the posts of my desire	46
	Fair is my love, and cruel as she's fair	46
	Look, Delia, how w' esteem the half-blown rose	47
	When winter snows upon thy sable hairs	47
	Let others sing of knights and paladins	48

FLETCHER

From Licia:

	In time the strong and stately turrets fall	48
--	---	----

SPENSER

From Amoretti:

13	In that proud port, which her so goodly graceth	49
----	---	----

CONTENTS

15 Ye tradefull Merchants, that with weary toyle	50
23 Penelope for her Ulisses sake	50
54 Of this worlds Theatre in which we stay	51
63 After long stormes and tempests sad assay	52
67 Lyke as a huntsman after weary chace	52
68 Most glorious Lord of lyfe, that on this day	53
71 I joy to see how in your drawn work	54
75 One day I wrote her name upon the strand	54
79 Men call you fayre, and you doe credit it	55

BARNES

From A Divine Century of Spiritual Sonnets:

The world's bright comforter, whose beamsome light	56

DRAYTON

From Idea:

To nothing fitter can I thee compare	57
An evil spirit, your beauty, haunts me still	58
To the Critic (Methinks I see some crooked mimic jeer)	58
Whilst thus my pen strives to eternize thee	59
Dear, why should you command me to my rest	59
To Time (Stay, speedy time; behold, before thou pass)	60
How many paltry, foolish, painted things	60
Since there's no help, come, let us kiss and part	61

SHAKESPEARE

From Sonnets:

1 From fairest creatures we desire increase	62
12 When I do count the clock that tells the time	63
15 When I consider everything that grows	64
16 But wherefore do not you a mightier way	65

POEMS OF THE ELIZABETHAN AGE

18	Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?	66
19	Devouring time, blunt thou the lion's paws	66
23	As an unperfect actor on the stage	67
29	When, in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes	68
30	When to the sessions of sweet silent thought	68
33	Full many a glorious morning have I seen	69
34	Why didst thou promise such a beauteous day	70
35	No more be grieved at that which thou hast done	70
53	What is your substance, whereof are you made	71
55	Not marble nor the gilded monuments	72
57	Being your slave, what should I do but tend	72
65	Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea	73
71	No longer mourn for me when I am dead	74
73	That time of year thou mayst in me behold	74
94	They that have power to hurt and will do none	75
102	My love is strengthened, though more weak in seeming	76
104	To me, fair friend, you never can be old	76
116	Let me not to the marriage of true minds	77
121	'Tis better to be vile than vile esteemed	78
127	In the old age black was not counted fair	79
128	How oft, when thou, my music, music play'st	80
129	Th' expense of spirit in a waste of shame	80
130	My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun	81
138	When my love swears that she is made of truth	82
141	In faith, I do not love thee with mine eyes	82
146	Poor soul, the centre of my sinful earth	83

DAVIES

From 'Gulling Sonnets':
The lover, under burden of his mistress' love	84
The sacred muse that first made Love divine	85

LYRICS

WYATT

They flee from me that sometime did me seek	89
Once, as methought, fortune me kissed	90
My lute, awake! perform the last	91
In eternum I was once determed	92
With serving still	93

SURREY

Complaint of the absence of her lover being upon the sea	94
A praise of his love	96

GASCOIGNE

Gascoigne's Arraignment	97

SIDNEY

My true love hath my heart and I have his	100
Why dost thou haste away	100
The nightingale, as soon as April bringeth	101
From Astrophil and Stella :
Doubt you to whom my muse these notes intendeth	102
Only joy, now here you are	104

FULKE GREVILLE

From Caelica :
You little stars that live in skies	106

POEMS OF THE ELIZABETHAN AGE

When all this All doth pass from age to age	106
You that seek what life is in death	107
Chorus Sacerdotum	108
LYLY
Song by Apelles (Cupid and my Campaspe played)	109
GREENE
In time we see that silver drops	109
When gods had framed the sweet of women's face	110
TICHBORNE
Tichborne's Elegy	111
SOUTHWELL
Look Home	112
Upon the Image of Death	113
ANONYMOUS
I joy not in no earthly bliss	115
ANONYMOUS
A Sonnet (His golden locks time hath to silver turned)	116
CAMPION
Hark, all you ladies that do sleep!	117
When to her lute Corinna sings	118
Follow your saint, follow with accents sweet	119
The man of life upright	119
When thou must home to shades of underground	120
Come, let us sound with melody the praises	121
