

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Preface	xv
Abbreviations	xix
Chapter One.
BLAKE'S COMPOSITE ART	3
I. Visual-Verbal Dialectics	4
II. Blake and the Tradition of the Sister Arts	14
1. Illustration: Visual Translation and Visionary Transformation	17
2. Pictorialist Poetry and Visionary Prophecy	20
3. The Picture as Text: Narrative, Allegory, and Vision	24
4. Painting Plus Poetry or Painting Times Poetry	30
III. The Unity of Blake's Composite Art	34
Chapter Two.
BLAKE'S PICTORIAL STYLE	40
I. Technical Discriminations and the Life of Forms	40
II. The Interplay of Color and Line: A Critique of the Descriptive Catalogue	44
III. Compositional Dynamics and the Life of the Body	53
IV. Linear Schemata: The Structures of the Elements and of the Senses	58
V. Metamorphoses of the Vortex	69
Chapter Three.
THE FORM OF INNOCENCE: Poetic and Pictorial Design in The Book of Thel	78
I. Structuring Reader Response: Claritas and Difficultas	78
II. Ambiguities of Plot and Theme: Some Versions of the Pastoral	81
III. Resolution, Independence, and Nothingness: The Uses of Selfhood	87
IV. The Illustrations: Style and Staging	95

CONTENTS

Chapter Four.

THE HUMAN ILLUSION: Poetic and Pictorial Design in The Book of Urizen	107
I. The Void Outside Existence: Urizen and the Prophecies of the Lambeth Period	107
II. Wit, Humor, and Revolutionary Epic	111
III. Transvaluing Values: The Parody of Milton	114
IV. Transforming Forms: The Critique of Time and Space	122
V. Nothingness, Illusion, and the Fortunate Fall	131
VI. "Dark Visions of Torment": Urizen as Picture Gallery	137
1. Narrative and Antinarrative in the Sequence of Plates	137
2. Framing Elements: Title page, Preludium, and Final Plate	140
3. The Spaces of Hell	145
4. The Spaces of Heaven	152
5. The Spaces of Earth	157

Chapter Five.

LIVING FORM: Poetic and Pictorial Design in Jerusalem	165
I. Structure and the Problem of Time: A Fourfold Model for Narrative	166
II. Generic Structure: Jerusalem as Comic Encyclopedic Anatomy	171
III. Spatial Structure: Center, Circumference, and the Serpent Temple	176
IV. Structure and Causality: Reading Jerusalem Backwards	182
V. Thematic Structure: The Sexual Politics of Oratory	185
VI. The Perfect Whole and the Minute Particulars	191
VII. The Illustrations: Style, Sequence, and Iconography	192
1. Technical Discriminations: "A Variety in Every Line"	194
2. The Gates of the City	197
VIII. A Conclusion in which Nothing Is Concluded	215
Index	219
Illustrations	235