

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
SECTION 1 Dasein	23
CHAPTER 1
‘[L]ife narrowed down to unfinished rooms’: Isolation and the Language of Self	25
CHAPTER 2
‘[Y]our link to the fate of mankind’: Connection and the Language of Self	41
SECTION 2 Phenomenology	69
CHAPTER 3
‘With a word they could begin to grid the world’: Denotation and the Language of Self	71
CHAPTER 4
‘[T]o smash my likeness, prism of all my images’: Hyperreality, ἀλήθεια (truth) and the Language of Self	101

SECTION 3	Das Man	121
CHAPTER 5
	'Capital burns off the nuance in a culture': Consumption, Capital, Chrimatistikós and the Middle American Enunciation of Self	123
CHAPTER 6
	'[T]he banned materials of civilization': Waste, Sinthomosexuality and Middle America	145
CHAPTER 7
	'[T]o maintain a force in the world that comes into people's sleep': Power, Alterity and the Formation of Hegemony	163
CHAPTER 8
	'[T]he balance of power and the balance of terror': Terrorism and the uneigentlich Publicness of das Man	183
CONCLUSION
	To '[e]xplore America in the screaming night': The Language of Self as the Foundation of Future DeLillo Criticism	205
	Selected Bibliography	213
	Index	219