

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Notes on the Contributors	xi
Textual Note	xiii
Introduction	1
Dinah Birch and Francis O’Gorman
1 Manliness and the History of Ruskin in Love: Writing Ruskin’s Masculinity from W.G. Collingwood to Kate Millett Francis O’Gorman	10
2 The Stones of Childhood: Ruskin’s ‘Lost Jewels’ Catherine Robson	29
3 The Foxglove and the Rose: Ruskin’s Involute of Childhood Lindsay Smith	47
4 Ruskin, Gautier, and the Feminization of Venice J.B. Bullen	64
5 The Feminist Origins of ‘Of Queens’ Gardens’ Linda H. Peterson	86
6 Ruskin’s ‘Womanly Mind’ (1988) Dinah Birch	107
7 ‘What Teachers Do You Give Your Girls?’ Ruskin and Women’s Education Dinah Birch	121
8 ‘Any Day That You’re a Good Boy’: Ruskin’s Patronage, Rossetti’s Expectations Joseph Bristow	137

viii Contents

9	Pantomime Truth and Gender Performance: John Ruskin on Theatre Sharon Aronofsky Weltman	159
10	Images of Proustian Inversion from Ruskin Emily Eells	177
	Selected Bibliography	201
	Index	206