

CONTENTS

PREFACE	vii
LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	xi
INTRODUCTION	3
CHAPTER ONE: RUSKIN'S THEORY OF THE SISTER ARTS
I. Ruskin and the tradition of ut pictura poesis	43
II. The use and moral value of art	53
III. Ruskin's conception of painting and poetry as expressive arts	69
IV. Conditions of the alliance	74
V. Implications of the alliance	79
CHAPTER TWO: RUSKIN'S THEORIES OF BEAUTY
I. Ruskin's refutation of "False Opinions held concerning Beauty"	89
II. Ruskin's theory of Typical Beauty	110
III. Ruskin's theory of Vital Beauty	146
CHAPTER THREE: RUSKIN'S THEORIES OF THE SUBLIME AND PICTURESQUE
I. Ruskin's theory of the sublime	183
II. Two modes of the picturesque	221
CHAPTER FOUR: RUSKIN'S RELIGIOUS BELIEF
I. Ruskin's Evangelical belief	243
II. Loss of belief	265
III. The return to belief	293
IV. Religion, man, and work	304
CHAPTER FIVE: RUSKIN AND ALLEGORY
I. Ruskin and nineteenth-century attitudes toward allegory	321
II. Ruskin's "language of types" and Evangelical readings of scripture	329
III. Typological symbolism in the readings of Ruskin's childhood	356

CONTENTS

IV. The Symbolical Grotesque—theories of allegory, artist, and imagination	370
V. Myth as allegory	399
VI. Ruskin's allegorical interpretations of Turner	420
VII. "Constant art" and the allegorical ideal	443
INDEX	459